ST. JOHN'S (HAIN'S) REFORMED CHURCH.

PREFACE.

To write a narrative or history of passing events as they transpire from time to time is an easy task. The material is then at hand and is only to be put in sentences embellished with language to gratify the taste of both writer and readers.

To put into writing what transpired more than five generations ago is a more difficult undertaking, especially when records and traditional facts are meager and few. It then becomes necessary to collect from all available sources information that throws light on the subject, and by collation ascertain which and what of the material is of the greater weight and reliability. This was found to be the case in the compilation of this work. It had been the wish of some of the members of the St. John's Reformed Church in Lower Heidelberg township, Berks county, Penna. (better known as Hain's Church), to have a history published giving in detail a description of the formation, struggles and growth of the congregation. An attempt of the same is hereby offered to the reading public.

THE GROWTH OF THE CHURCH RECORD.

In the year 1891 Mr. Michael Ruth, an aged member of the congregation, made a suggestion that some one should take care of the old church records, so that they would not be lost. It was then remarked that Mr. Adam G. Lerch was the proper person for this task. This induced Mr. Lerch to make translations of the same, so that the coming generations could read them. Then later Dr. James I. Good.

"We, the undersigned, whose ancestors lie buried in the grave-yard of the Hain's Reformed Church, Berks county, Pennsylvania, do, out of respect to their memory, present this Church Register to its consistory, so that the early church records may be translated into it by Adam G. Lerch, and thus preserved. May 9, 1896.

St. John's (Hain's) Reformed Church.

First Period—1730-1757.

The history of St. John's Reformed Church of Lower Heidelberg township, Berks county, Pennsylvania, is the history of the people of that part of the country in those early pioneer days and brings to light the life and character of the people of Eastern Pennsylvania. They were men of good morals, pure character, honest and upright in their dealings, whose word was as good as their note, with strong and hardy bodies endured to hardship, ever willing to suffer deprivation for the cause of justice, of resolute determination and zealous devotion to the God whom they worshipped. These people came from a country where war and strife held supremacy for centuries, and where no one was safe from molestation.

"Brains," says Machiavelli, "are of three generations—those that understand for themselves, those that understand when another shows them, and those that understand neither of themselves nor by the showing of another." The people that came to this country were of the first class. Such men you cannot enslave; you can put them in bondage, but their minds will ever remain unfettered. If it were not for the latter two classes, humanity could not be made the tools and servants of unscrupulous and tyrannical despots and be hurled against each other in war to their own destruction, and those escaping the ravages of the murderous hand made to restore the devastated land and pay the taxes. For centuries the common people were oppressed by war, but especially when the Thirty Years War broke out; the conflicting armies swept over Germany and the Netherlands like a devastating fire, fighting solely for plunder, and men became like legions of fiends unchained from hell. When the war ended in 1648, by the Treaty of Westphalia, civilization was almost blotted out.

After coming out of all this strife, deprivation and suffering it is but natural that the earliest settlers should endeavor to organize a home rule or government that would meet with their long deferred hopes. With such underlying thoughts and feelings in the hearts of the men, this community was established, a place for good government and pure religion. These very thoughts and motives produced a Thomas Jefferson, a George Washington, and a William Penn, and many others, the founders of our free institutions, and the separation of the State and the Church and the education of the children, for in the country where our people came from the Church and the State were one, a great evil in the minds of our forefathers ; hence whenever the State or any organized body tried to bring things back to the old system it met with the greatest opposition, and the people that belonged to the Tory party called them all sorts of names, ridiculed them and spoke of their language in derision, but our people remembered the sufferings, the trials and all the wrong that had been perpetrated under the guise of religion and those who said they were divinely ordained to rule over them. Several of the American colonies, following the example of England, established Churches supported by the State, but the Revolution, which severed the relations between the colonies and the mother country, put an end to these establishments. The State Church was repealed in New York in 1777, in Virginia in 1785, in New Hampshire and Connecticut in 1818, and in Massachusetts in 1833.

"After taking these things into consideration, we can understand why Thomas Paine, in 1776, published a pamphlet entitled "Common Sense," in which he maintained the cause of the colonies against the mother country. The success and influence of this publication were extraordinary and it won for him the friendship of Washington, Franklin and other distinguished American leaders.

Thomas Jefferson said that every man had two countries, his own and France and the Netherlands, from which he learned many of the ideas which became part of the Constitution of the United States. In the Declaration of Independence, Church and State are separated and the rights of the individual man established.

But long before the Declaration of Independence was written those principles were deeply written into the hearts of the men that came to the Lebanon valley and laid the foundation of what is now Hain's Reformed Church, or was then known as the Cacoosing Church of Heidelberg township. The origin of the birth of the Constitution is found in France, Holland and the Netherlands, which have been the battleground of the world for centuries and which aroused such intense opposition to the Church and State being one and the State the ruler of both, and where the rulers claimed divine origin, denying the rights of the common people. This is the reason that Jews and Roman Catholics were excluded from holding public office ; because they could never divorce their religion from public affairs and the government, and thus they were not considered safe as rulers in a country where free institutions prevailed.

CACOOSING TERRITORY.

By a careful study of the conditions existing at the time those sturdy pioneers made their appearance in the section of territory east of the Tulpehocken region to the Cacoosing creek and made their abode in what is now the fertile Lebanon valley ; the reader must remember that the Cacoosing territory was directly east of Wernersville, that is the watershed into the Cacoosing creek, the eastern part of the Lebanon valley, and extended west as far as Cornwall, to the Quito Pabillio and to the South Mountain, eastern part of Heidelberg township and a small part of Spring township ; the central part comprised the territory extending westward to the Tulpehocken watershed, and the western part of what was then Heidelberg, to Tulpehocken region, likely as far as the Mill-creek.

FROM SCHOHARIE TO TULPEHOCKEN.

The section known as Heidelberg, Berks county, formerly Lancaster county, was settled by immigrants who left the Palatinate in Germany about the year 1707-1709. They first went to London in response to the invitation of Queen Anne, who had seen their destitute condition in the Fatherland. About the year 1710 a number of the Palatinates came to Schoharie, Ulster county, New York.

Owing to the cruel treatment received at the hands of Governor Hunter, and having heard of the unoccupied lands in Swatara and Tulpehocken in Pennsylvania, they left Schoharie and traveled in a southwestern direction through the forest till they reached the Susquehanna river, where they made rafts, loaded them with their families and some household goods, floated down the river to the mouth of the Swatara creek ; thence they worked their way up till they reached a fertile spot on the Tulpehocken creek, where they settled amidst the Indians in the spring of 1723. The cattle they drove by land. There were thirty-three families of them at Tulpehocken in 1728.

In 1729 there was an important accession. Among these were the Holms, Fischers, Lauers, Anspachs, Badtorfs, Spichers, Christs, Cadermans, Noacres, Lebenguths and the Weisers. Some of these families remained in the Tulpehocken section, while some moved eastward to Womelsdorf, and still others farther eastward to what was known as the Cacoosie section, among whom were the Hains, Fischers, Spohns and Laucks.

Thus the causes that led them to brave the tempests of the Atlantic, the trials and suffering they had to endure at the hands of those in whom they had entrusted their weal and woe ; in their defective title to the lands at Schoharie, New York, and eviction out of their homes ; their journey through an unbroken wilderness inhabited by wild beasts and savage Indians; their floating down the Susquehanna river on primitive rafts, and on disembarking having nothing before them but again a vast wilderness and the canopy of the heavens; their tedious and weary journey to the place which was to become their abode; the labor, the trials and hardships they had to undergo in conquering the forests and the wilderness to make the land arable and bring about the productiveness of the soil. No wonder that those became a peculiar or separate people, of different thought and mind, than such as had not passed through such fiery furnaces or ordeals of adversities as they had. On the other hand, we have those of the Palatines who came direct from their mother country to the eastern part of the province of Pennsylvania and settled in this section at a later time, who for the sake of religious liberty sought a home where they could worship God according to the dictates of their conscience without hindrance or molestation.

EARLY HISTORY OF THE REFORMED CHURCH IN PENNSYLVANIA.

The recorded history of our Church in Pennsylvania begins with the year 1720. There is but a single document which goes back to that early date. It is the petition of the Reformed people in Montgomery county, presented to the Classis of Amsterdam, requesting that body to consent to the ordination of John Philip Boehm. Writing of Rev. Boehm they thus refer to the first German Reformed services in Pennsylvania: "Shortly after his arrival (in 1720) some of the neighbors established a religious meeting, in which the said John Philip Boehm, as reader, maintained the ministry of the Word to the best of his ability and to the great satisfaction of the people, for five years, without receiving any compensation." In the year 1725 the people succeeded at last in persuading Boehm to assume all the duties and responsibilities of the ministerial office. After long hesitation he finally yielded to their urgent request, and on October 15, 1725, he celebrated the Lord's Supper for the first time at Falkner Swamp, and organized the first German Reformed congregation in Pennsylvania. If we are to accept any date as the birthday of our Church in Pennsylvania, it ought certainly to be October 15, 1725.

At the same time when Boehm was organizing his first congregations and assuming all the rights of a minister, the Reformed people began to congregate in another section. It is an interesting fact, which ought to be emphasized, that almost contemporaneously and yet independently, the beginning was made in two distinct places, namely, in the Schuylkill Valley by Boehm and in the Conestoga Valley by Conrad Tempelman. The latter began unknown to Boehm and independent of him in 1725, the birthyear of our Church. They were both pious laymen, both were urged to undertake the work by their neighbors and friends, and both were instrumental in gathering many congregations and in saving the Reformed Church from the danger of sectarianism, which threatened to crush out her existence.

The first definite reference we have to Hain's or Cacusi Church is found in the report of John Philip Boehm to the Classis or Coetus of Amsterdam, January 14, 1739. After referring to difficulties which existed at Oley he continues: "The minister of this congregation can also supply the place which is called Cacusi, where (as I hear) likewise a considerable congregation has gathered. This place is about seven or eight miles from the centre in Oley. (Goetschi has also presumed for some time to serve this congregation with the means of grace.) At Falkner Swamp, White Marsh, Oley and Philadelphia, and also in the neighboring places, there is as yet nothing. Services are held with great inconveniences in houses and barns, except at Cacusi, near Oley, where (as I hear) they have built a log church for their use. Now concerning the last point, how the congregations are supplied with schoolmasters and precentors, there is as far as I know nobody with fixed position."

In the same report Rev. Boehm reports how the churches of Pennsylvania may be combined and in the most convenient and useful way be served by six ministers. "At Oley the same condition prevails, and perhaps a suitable place may still be found from which Cacusi and Maxatawny may be served."

Minutes of Coetus, pages 12, 13 and 16.

SECTARIANISM.

Pennsylvania was flooded at that time by all kinds of sects—Quakers and Mennonites, Dunkers and Seventh Day Baptists, Inspirationists and Separatists, Hermits and Newborn. Moreover, we are informed by Spangenberg, the biographer of Zinzendorf, that "many thousands of these people were so indifferent toward religion that it had become proverbial to say of a man who did not care for God or His Word, that he had the Pennsylvania religion."

This deplorable condition is very strikingly set forth in a letter of Boehm to the Classis of Amsterdam, dated November 12, 1730, in which he says: "By these dangerous sects an appalling number of people have been led astray, yea, even married people have been separated. The two main heretics, who have been driven away from all places (C. Beissel and Michael Wohlfahrt) live at Canastota and Falknerschwam. Meanwhile it must be feared that if they are not opposed, many poor people will be led astray by them. We hear continually of such who here or there have gone over to them, to our great astonishment, even of some Reformed people."

It was this activity and missionary enterprise, especially of the Dunkers, described at length in the Ephrata "Chronicle," which led the Reformed people to rally around their leaders with the determination to stem, if possible, the flood of sectarianism, which was sweeping over the land.

They realized that the thing for them to do was to erect a Church for the glory of God, where they might worship God and have His divine blessing and enjoy the freedom for which they had been struggling for centuries. Therefore, by their united efforts, these various sects were prevented from coming into the territory of this congregation.

Grotius, who was well informed as to the conditions of Europe, says that a hundred thousand heretics were put to death in the Netherlands under the edicts of Charles V. Such was the religious record of this people. They were divided into seventeen provinces; this explains the numerous sects found in eastern Pennsylvania, as each province united under their faith because the old form of government was largely destroyed.

When the Reformation first broke out, the Reformers of the Low Countries inclined to the theology of Luther. But in time they took up with the teachings of Calvin, and Calvinism in all its fullness was adopted as the creed of the Reformed Church. It is to this doctrine that the free countries owe their liberty, and the United States are the first fruition.

It was the Reformed Church of Holland which first planted Presbyterianism in the new world. Subsequently, many adherents of the Reformed faith emigrated to America. Those from the Continent, while retaining the general epithet of the Reformed, prefixed adjectives to indicate their origin; hence the Dutch Reformed, the French Reformed, and the German Reformed Churches; scattered representatives of the Swiss Reformed also were not wanting. From 1730 to 1792 the German Reformed churches, mostly derived from the Palatinate, placed themselves under the Classis of Amsterdam. To Amsterdam, indeed, all the American Churches that were of Continental origin turned for men and money.

The Reformed Church in the United States, while it recognizes all evangelical Christians as brethren, has been noted for conservatism in doctrine, or else this congregation could not have been true to its doctrine for a period of some twenty years without a regular minister; this proves that the early settlers were well grounded in their faith.

The elders and deacons are chosen only for two years, although they may be re-elected; but the elder retains the honor of his office for life, and may at any time, although not in the Consistory, become a delegate to the Synods of the Church. The acting Consistory may call together all former elders as a Great Consistory for consultation on important matters. Such a meeting was held at the Cacoosing Church, August 29, 1743. The same is found in Dr. Good's "History of the Reformed Church in the United States," page 240.

In order to avoid neglecting any part of divine truth, ministers are required to explain the system of doctrine contained in the Heidelberg Catechism to the youth. The system presents the fact and the cause of man's misery, the method of redemption and the gratitude which is due to God therefor, constructed on such a basis and emphasizing the comforts to be derived from all the great facts of Christianity, the Heidelberg Catechism is one to which evangelical Christians of all creeds could subscribe.

The difficulties that encompassed the work of establishing this organization had appeared well nigh insurmountable when Boehm and Weiss began their labor among them. The Germans were poor, and had brought with them from their fatherland their doctrines. Unfamiliar with the language of their adopted country, they were slow to adopt the methods of their neighbors, and in later days a change in language, accompanied by dissension and conflict, is not surprising. These difficulties, however, were eventually overcome, as the remarkable growth of the Church shows.

Tulpehocken.

The territory called Tulpehocken was not confined to the present limits of Tulpehocken and Upper Tulpehocken, but it embraced all the land along the Tulpehocken creek and up to the Blue Mountains, except Bera and a few other townships west of the Schuylkill. The place in which most of the historical events transpired are now comprehended in Heidelberg, Marion, Tulpehocken and Bethel. The most important meetings and conference took place at Conrad Weiser's farm.

The settlers spread rapidly over the county and, since part of the now Lebanon valley was looked upon as a promised land and was one of the most noted places in the county at this time for the fertility of the soil and its desirableness for a habitation, it was natural for the Palatines to have a strong inclination to settle there.

The Indians never brought charges of fraud and dishonesty against the Palatines, and the Germans always treated the Indians with strict adherence to honesty and never took advantage of them, and for this reason there is no record of an Indian massacre in this section, which speaks remarkably well for the early settlers and their peaceable disposition.

The secretary produced a number of deeds, in one of which Sassoonan signed a release of "all the land situated between the two rivers, Delaware and the Susquehanna, from Duck creek (in Delaware) to the mountains on this side of the Lechay (Lehigh). This territory was again covered by a deed given in 1732.

"Sassoonan (Allumapees) said that the land beyond these bounds had never been paid for, that they reached no further than a few miles beyond Oley, but that their lands on the Tulpehocken were seated by the Christians."

"Mr. Logan (the secretary) answered that he understood at the time the deed was drawn and since that Lechay hills or mountains stretched away from a little below Lechay or fork of the Delaware to those hills on the Susquehanna that lie about ten miles above Paxton. Mr. Farmer said those hills passed from Lechay a few miles above Oley, and reached no further, and that Tulpehocken lands lie beyond them."

It was at length conceded that the land in Tulpehocken still belonged to the Indians and it was at once conceded that the Palatines would not have settled without the consent or invitation of some man who held a position in the Provincial Council. After a number of animated speeches to discover on whom lay the responsibility of inviting the Palatines to settle on land still in the possession of the Delaware, James Logan, a member of Council, said that he was aware that Palatines had settled there and how they came there he was about to disclose. He then presented a petition directed to His Excellency William Keith, Baronet-Governor of Pennsylvania, and signed by thirty-three families. The petition is as follows:

"That your petitioners are natives of Germany. About fifteen years ago they were by the great goodness and royal bounty of her late Majesty Queen Anne, relieved from the hardships which they then suffered in Europe and were transported into the colony of New York, where they settled. But their families increasing and being in that government confined to the scanty allowance of ten acres of land to each family, whereon they could not well subsist. Your petitioners being informed of the kind reception which their countrymen usually met with in the province of Pennsylvania, and hoping with what substance they had, acquire larger settlements in the province, did last year leave their settlements in New York government and came with their families into this province, where upon their arrival they applied themselves to His Excellency, the Governor, who of his great goodness permitted them to inhabit upon Tulpehocken creek, on condition that they should make full satisfaction to the proprietor or his agents for such lands as should be allotted to them when they were ready to receive the same. And now your petitioners, understanding that some gentlemen, agents of the proprietor, have ample powers to dispose of lands in this province. And we, your petitioners, being willing and ready to purchase, do humbly beseech your Excellency and Council to recommend us to the favorable usage of the proprietor's agents, that upon paying the usual prices for lands at such distance from Philadelphia we may have sufficient rights and titles made to us for such land as we have occasion to buy. And we humbly beg leave to inform your Excellency and Council that there are fifty families more who, if they be admitted upon the same conditions, are desirous to come and settle with us. We hope for your favorable answer to this, our humble request, and as in duty bound shall ever pray."

In 1723 thirty-three families of the Germans, having been sorely pressed and wronged, firstly by the Dutch and then by the English, and then finally deprived of their lands and other possessions in Schoharie county, New York, came to Pennsylvania by the Susquehanna and Swatara. They settled near Tulpehocken, about 50 miles west of the Schuylkill.

William Fisher was one of this company and settled in Heidelberg township. He married Gertrude Elizabeth Hain, daughter of George Hain. Peter, son of William Fisher, married Abigail Heckert (afterwards Eckert), and the son Henry married Susannah Ruth on January 4, 1781, and died in Huntingdon, Pa., in 1821.

Peter Fisher and his son Peter were privates in the Revolutionary war, in the company of Capt. John Ludwig (1780), while Henry Fisher served as a private in 1776, in the company of Captain Henry Christ.

Henry Fisher emigrated from Heidelberg to Oley (Berks) in 1791; married to Sarah, daughter of Jacob V. R. Hunter.

The War of the Palatinate (1688-1697).

Louis resolved to attack the Confederates, with no other purpose but to destroy them, hence he hurried a large army into their country and laid waste the entire country. Among the places reduced to ruins were the historic town of Heidelberg and a number of smaller towns. Even fruit trees, vines and crops were destroyed, and a hundred thousand peasants were rendered homeless. This gives us an idea of the terrible suffering and poverty of the people that came to the New World to seek shelter and a place where they might enjoy freedom without persecution from religious fanatics.

The Theory of the Divine Right of Kings.

From the day of King Saul, when the people cried out, "Let us have a king!" kings were regarded as being the appointed rulers from God to govern the people. This theory was held as regards kings and the Papacy. According to this theory, they were to take care of the people as a father takes care of his family and provides for them; and under no circumstances is it right for them to rebel against his authority, any more than for children to rise against their father. The king is responsible to God alone, and to God the people, quietly submissive, must leave the avenging of all their wrongs.

Kings are the ministers of God. "The throne of a king is not the throne of man, but the throne of God himself." "The person of a king is sacred, and it is sacrilege to harm them." The same applies to the Papacy. By the misdeeds of kings and Popes the people gradually learned by their deeds that they were not appointed of God, but simply the machination of unscrupulous men. And thus we have the great struggle between the rulers and the people; out of it came the Reformation and all wars pertaining thereto, which pauperized the people, devastated the land and turned the world into a field of carnage.

Religious Revival, Sects and All Sorts of Fanatics.

The great Protestant communions finally broke up into a larger number of denominations, or Churches, each holding to some minor point of doctrine, or adhering to some form of worship disregarded by the other. The contentions between the different sects were sharp and bitter, like that in the days of the Apostle Paul. One said, "I am of Luther;" another said, "I am of Calvin," and another said, "I am of Zwingli," and so of all the sects that had adherents among the people.

From the foregoing historical facts explains the divergence and especially different trend of the people that came in the Tulpehocken region and those coming in the Cacoosing region, the former being allied to the Germans while the latter came from the Palatines and Dutch, and that for a century this part of the Church did not receive any recognition by the Coetus.

The forming of the congregations and the erecting of houses of worship at this early period was indeed a hardship, and services were held generally at private houses until a nucleus was obtained leading to a congregation.

The Reformed Church then had only a few ministers, and those adhering to the Reformed faith were scattered over a great extent of territory, with no roads communicating or making places accessible other than trails or only partly opened roads through dense forests. It thus is very plain that those isolated settlements could not have regular services, but only at some stated time, once or twice a year at the most, be visited by one of the few ministers located in eastern Pennsylvania; such was, without any doubt, the situation of this congregation.

From 1730 to 1757, during which time it had no regular pastor for any length of time, services were likely conducted by some layman. The following names do appear in those early times:

John Conrad Tempelman.

John Conrad Tempelman was born at Weinheim, in the Palatinate, and baptized March 22, 1692. (In those early times, as a rule, no record is kept of the birth, but only of the time of baptism.) He was the son of Henry Tempelman, a miller by trade. He was married September 22, 1717, to Anna Maria Barth. He came to America between the years 1721 and 1725; the exact time is not known. He was a parochial school teacher and started many a Church and parochial school.

He lived near Lebanon, and began preaching about the same time that Boehm did, namely, in 1725. Tempelman thus describes the first beginnings of his work in a letter sent to the Holland deputies, February 13, 1733: "This Church took its origin in the year 1725, at Chaneestoka, with a small gathering here and there in houses, with the reading of a sermon and with singing and prayer, according to the German Reformed Church order, upon all Sundays and holidays." He also says that on account of the lack of ministers they were without the administration of baptism and the Lord's Supper. Tempelman was very watchful against sects, and his congregations were very much united.

As the two founders of the German Reformed Church, Boehm and Tempelman, were laymen, it brings into prominence the thought that the Reformed Church owes a debt to the laity. She should, therefore, give prominence to them in their work, and not try to suppress them. (This idea of the laity ruling is characteristic of the people of this section of Berks county and Lehigh county.) This origin of the Reformed Church through the laity gives a special emphasis to the idea that the ministry is not a separate class appointed to do some other work than the laity. All of God's people are priests. "Ye are a holy priesthood," says the Apostle Peter, and the watchword of the Reformation was the priesthood of all believers. Our Church in Pennsylvania owes its origin to the pious laymen.

Tempelman's eyesight became defective in the later years of his life, on account of which he was no longer able to serve his congregations. In 1760 he is reported as blind. He died about 1761.

He was buried about four miles southeast of Lebanon at a place called Tempelman's Hill, near which he used to live.

Rev. Samuel Guldin.

He was born at Berne, Switzerland, a son of Hans Joachin Guldin and Anna Maria Koch; he was baptized April 8, 1664. He was educated at Berne, entering the University there in 1679, and became a Swiss Pietist. In 1710 he came to America, having with him his wife and four children. He was the first Reformed minister in Pennsylvania. He died December 31, 1745.

Francis Layenberger.

There is no record of his birth or parentage. All that we know is that he served the Church as a pious layman. (They had services regularly by a school teacher named Francis Layenberger, whose faithfulness Boehm praises.)

John Philip Boehm.

John Philip Boehm was the son of Rev. Philip Lewis Boehm; he was born at Hochstadt, and was baptized there November 25, 1683. He was a school teacher at Worms from 1708 to 1715. He came to America about 1725, and the records show that he organized a number of congregations.

He was ordained to the holy ministry on Sunday afternoon, November 23, 1739. He died April 29, 1749.

John Henry Goetschi.

Maurice Goetschi (Rev.) was born in 1686 and became a minister in 1710. He and his son came to America May 29, 1735, landing at Philadelphia. On the day of their arrival the father died, and on June 2 he was buried in the churchyard of the principal Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia. His son John Henry was born in 1718. Goetschi, even before his ordination, left Pennsylvania and went, October, 1740, to Long Island, where the congregations had given him a call.

Jacob Lischy.

He was born at Muhlhausen, in southwestern Germany. The date of his birth is uncertain, either September 20, 1716, or May 28, 1719. He came to Philadelphia in the latter part of May, 1742. He took the oath of allegiance on May 28, 1742. The last years of his life he spent on a farm near Wolf's Church, York county, where he died in 1781 and was buried there.

He was one of the most interesting persons at that time. He was the most important because of the work he did. He soon became a leading spirit among the Moravians. As far as ability and leadership were concerned he would have made a far better superintendent of the Reformed than Bechtel did. Indeed, he virtually did that work, for Bechtel was a comparatively quiet and non-aggressive man, while Lischy was bright, aggressive and self-asserting. What progress was made among the Reformed by the Moravians was made mainly through Lischy's efforts. Lischy, by traveling around the country, gave Boehm no end of trouble. Indeed, his very qualities for leadership ultimately made the Moravians suspicious of him that he was not entirely sincere in his adherence to them. From the very first he threw himself heartily into the movement. He had hardly landed in America when he accompanied Zinzendorf on a journey (July 24-August 2, 1742) to the Delaware Indians in the Minnisink Mountains. They returned by way of Lehigh Gap, through Allemaengel in Lehigh county, to Tulpehocken. When Zinzendorf was at Tulpehocken the Lutherans protested against the Moravians taking their Church, August 11, 1742, in a pamphlet called "The Tulpehocken Confusion." (There were also some Reformed in the confusion there protesting against the Moravians.) In December Zinzendorf, while passing through Warwick township, Lancaster county (now Lititz) was asked by persons there to send them a minister. He sent Lischy to Muddy Creek and Kissel's Farm, where Lischy's preaching produced a great awakening. He was ordained at Philadelphia, January, 1743, by David Nitschman. On March 1, 1743, he published his Declaration of his Intention. Its object was to reveal his theological views and also his aim in preaching the gospel. It shows his adherence to the articles of the Berne Synod, and is also Moravian in its gross idea of Christ's wounds. It is followed by a testimonial signed by too many to have their names published. It closes with a hymn of Lischy's. He at once begins his missionary trips among the Reformed to gain them from Boehm to the Congregation of the Spirit. On Thursday before Easter he organized the Muddy Creek congregation on the basis of Bechtel's Catechism and the articles of the Berne Synod, and he baptized there, 1743-4. On April 10 he was in the Coventry district of Chester county, west of the Schuylkill, where the Reformed congregation called him, and a constitution was drawn up on May 19, 1743. On August 29 of that year we find him in Heidelberg township, Berks county, at the Cacusi Church. There a great meeting was held of the Reformed elders from twelve congregations. They were Cacusi, Berne, Heidelberg (probably in Lebanon county), Cocalico, Donegal, Upper Swatara, Blue Mountain, Muddy Creek, Vincent and Schuylkill, and White Oaks. Here it was charged that he was a follower of Zinzendorf, and not a Reformed, and also that he had not been properly ordained. In reply he told the story of his life, and showed the certificate of his ordination. The Reformed were thoroughly satisfied with him and unanimously called him as their pastor. Indeed, they were so well satisfied with him that they published a leaflet signed by themselves, in which they declare that they will brand anyone who attacked Lischy as a liar and a fraud, and a disturber of the peace.

From a letter and report of the Rev. John Philip Boehm to the Classis of Amsterdam, May 19, 1743: "I was also informed by a certain trustworthy man that this man Lischy is said to have sworn by the throne of God, in the presence of certain people at Gaguschi (Cacusi), in Bern township, that he had nothing to do with the doctrine of the Herrnhuters. As a result he was admitted into the Reformed Church there, whereby much mischief has been caused among the members of that congregation. Again, Lischy preached in a private house in Bern township and said in his sermon: 'People should not worry. All men would be saved; none should be lost.' Whereupon George Heen (Hain) there at the above-mentioned Church called him to account soon afterward, demanding that he should prove this from the Scriptures. 'Only rogues and thieves talked in this manner.' On account of this (the word thief) he was cited (before a Justice) by a warrant of Conrad Weiser and bound over to the court at Lancaster."

Lischy hardly preached in the Cacusi Church after this incident.

In a letter of Boehm, written on March 30, 1740, he makes the following report about "Gaguschi" to the Classis of Amsterdam:

"Concerning the congregation at Gaguschi (Cacusi). I was there on the 8th of February (1740) and spoke with Jacob Rieser, who showed me the way to N. Riehm, a deacon, with whom I stayed over night. Next morning he went with me to John Kershner. I explained to them the affair as well as I could. *But I noticed more distrust than zeal for this good and beneficial cause. When I finally desired to know their will and opinion they answered that they would consider the case among themselves and come to me to Dolpehacken on the 10th or 11th (of February) and sign a paper. But, although I waited beyond the appointed time, yet they did not come."—Pres. Historical Journal, vol. 7, page 319.

Frederick Casimir Miller.

He was from Steichein, near Mayence, where he had been a school teacher. He came to America before 1744. He belonged to the independent class of so called ministers. He was undaunted; he therefore never became a member of the Coetus. The last we hear of him is that he was in Oley in 1764.

*He was trying to induce them to subscribe a definite sum toward the support of a minister.

John Henry Decker.

John Henry Decker became pastor of the Cacusi Church in Berks county in 1751. He was pastor a second time, 1753-1755. As to the history of his life there is no record. He was independent.

Thirty Years' War.

The long and calamitous Thirty Years' War was the last great combat between Protestantism and Catholicism in Europe. It is impossible to picture the wretched condition in which the Thirty Years' War left Germany. When the struggle began the population of the country was thirty millions; when it ended, twelve millions. Two thirds of the personal property had been destroyed. Many of the most flourishing cities were reduced to "mere shells." Vast districts lay waste without an inhabitant. The very soil in many regions had reverted to its primitive wilderness.

The Controversy Between Boehm and Lischy in Heidelberg, August 29, 1743.

The people that came into this section firmly believed in the Heidelberg Catechism and were guided by its doctrine, and when any one came in their midst of doubtful faith or doctrine they did not allow their teaching, and yet, in spite of it all, they were ever on the alert as to their liberty, so that no king or Pope should rule over them, or any form of government that did not come from the people. This was the cause of the controversy between Boehm and Lischy. The former strictly adhered to the Church authority or the Coetus of Holland, while the latter did not hold himself subject to their teaching and authority, but stood aloof and belonged to the so-called independent preachers. Boehm complained that Lischy made him a great deal of trouble, in that he interfered with his work. It is reported that Lischy organized the Muddy Creek congregation on the basis of Bechtel's Catechism and the articles of the Berne Synod. It is true that Lischy was sustained at this meeting, but the members of St. John's (Hain's) Church, or Cacusi, never fell in with his views, nor did he serve them for any length of time. It must ever be said to the credit of this congregation that they ever remained true to the teaching of the Heidelberg Catechism. This goes to prove how firmly they were grounded in the faith of the Reformed Church and her doctrine. Where is there another class of people that could hold on to the faith of their fathers for a generation without any Church organization, having only laymen as their teachers to guide them? This in itself is one of the most remarkable things in the history of this congregation.

Copy of the Original Document Given Under the Seal of His Excellency, the Count, Secretary of the Chancery, Bierstein, 1733.

We, the Chancellor of the Right Hon. Count and Lord Sir Wolfgang Ernst, Count of Isenberg and Biedingen, our gracious Count and Lord, hereby acknowledge and make known that William Fisher, heretofore inhabitant, neighbor and subject of Langenselbol, Amts Bonnenburg, obediently informed us that he has decided to depart and to emigrate to Pennsylvania, where he intends to settle, and at the same time humbly requests us to notify not only his honesty and integrity, but faithfully to attest that henceforth he owes no allegiance to his Excellency, the Count, as we should find by investigation, and as we would consider it our duty to bear witness to the truth and further the welfare of each and every one.

To this seemingly request to William Fisher we had to accede the more readily the better we have assured ourselves by authenticated reports that William Fisher has heretofore conducted himself to his Excellency, the Count, his counsellors, officials, and toward each and every one, that we can give to all good testimony in his behalf.

His Excellency and we his chancellor decree that William Fisher owes us no allegiance, and permit to him to leave the county of Isenberg and to settle wherever he may desire.

We therefore request all high and low, according to their stations and dignity, obediently, submissively and subserviently and kindly, not only to give implicit belief to our testimony, that the above named William Fisher, who comes from a place free from all infectious disease, be permitted to go free and unmolested by whomsoever met, and his long journey to give him all assistance and preferment, which we shall ever be ready to reciprocate whenever the opportunity shall offer.

Ground for Erection of the Church.

The ground for the erection of a church was given by George Hain or Hen.

George Hain, after whom the church was named, the donor of the land upon which the church was erected, died in the year 1746, as appears by an appraisement of his estate. The inventory was taken August 19, 1746, wherein mention is made of a certain tract of land on which the church stands, or out of which the church land was taken, which was valued and appraised at 10 pounds.

From the inventory and will we learn that the following children survived him: John Christ, Peter, George, Adam, Frederick, Henry, Casper (born in 1724 and died October 2, 1762, the father of seven children), Sibila, wife of Jacob Freymeyer; Elizabeth, wife of William Fisher.

In the church records of the Kocherthal colony, which are printed in the magazine "Ye Old Ulster," we find the following Hain record: "Baptized in Schoharie, June 6, 1716, Johann, born February 8, child of John George and Veronica Hohn. Sponsors, Johann Cast and Commissioner. August 18, Anna Elizabeth, born the tenth child of Michael and Magdalena Hoenigen. Sponsors, Johann Stahl and Elizabeth Duntzbachni."

The will of George Hen is on record in the court house in Philadelphia

From the will and from other records we have the Christian name of George Hain's wife, Veronica, but do not know her family name.

Will of George Hen.

It is my will that all my just debts and funeral expenses be fully paid and satisfied. Secondly. Then I do give and devise and bequeath unto my son John Christ my tract of land lying on the other side of Runn of about 150 acres, this proviso and upon this execution only that he shall return and give back 30 acres of land which he comprised to have admeasured to him from land that was laid out and surveyed unto me; and if not complying with this proviso and condition, he, John Christ, shall no ways have the land so bequeathed unto him, but instead thereof shall have 5 shillings sterling money of Great Britain; the said tract of land so intended for him shall revert to my estate. Then I do give and bequeath unto my son Peter 1 shilling sterling money of Great Britain. Then I do give and bequeath unto my son John George 1 shilling sterling money of Great Britain. Then I do give and bequeath unto my son John Casper the plantation where I live upon on Dry Creek, contains 200 acres, altogether with the buildings and improvements therein. Then I give, devise and bequeath unto my two last named John Henry and John Casper that tract of land adjoining William Allen's by the hill, containing 126 acres, to be equally used or divided between them; and I do hereby nominate and appoint my said beloved wife, Veronita, and Thomas Edwards, Esq., to be Executors of this my last Will and Testament; and I do hereby revoke all other and former Wills and Testaments by me made, and do declare this and no other to be my last Will and Testament.

In witness whereof I, the said George Hen, have hereunto set my hand and seal this 17th day of November in the 16th year of his Majesty's Reign, A. D. 1743.

Signed, sealed and published and declared by George Hen to be his last will.

DILLENBURG THE BIRTHPLACE OF REV. WALDSCHMIDT

Second Period—1757-1810.

John Waldschmidt.

John Waldschmidt was born at Dillenburg, in the county of Nassau, Germany, on August 6, 1724. Waldschmidt pursued his studies first in the Latin school and later in the University at Herborn.

While he was studying at Herborn events were taking place in Pennsylvania which prepared the way for his coming. Michael Schlatter, a Swiss minister, was sent in 1746 by the Synods of North and South Holland to organize the Reformed congregations of Pennsylvania under the jurisdiction of the Church of Holland. This commission was carried out by Schlatter, and on Sept. 29, 1747, four ministers and twenty-eight elders, representing twenty congregations, met in Philadelphia and organized there the "Coetus (or Convention) of the Reformed Churches of Pennsylvania." During his journeys, made by Schlatter in the course of the next three years, he found that there were no less than forty-six Reformed congregations in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Virginia, which were served by only four ordained ministers. As no progress was possible under these circumstances, unless more ministers were secured, Schlatter returned to Holland to interest the Church of Holland in sending more ministers to Pennsylvania.

In the spring of 1751 Schlatter appeared before the two Synods of Holland, which listened with great interest to his touching story regarding the needy condition of the Reformed people of Pennsylvania. His plea for six new ministers found a favorable hearing, and, in order to make the undertaking possible from a financial point of view, the Synods sent a petition to the States of Holland and West Friesland to grant an annual subvention for the work in Pennsylvania. This petition was granted in August, 1751, the States of Holland and West Friesland voting the sum of 2,000 florins (or $800) annually for a period of five years; and when this grant had expired, it was renewed at three successive occasions. It was this liberal grant of the Dutch government which made it possible for the Church of Holland to send missionaries to Pennsylvania.

Accordingly Schlatter was commissioned by the Synods to visit the chief Reformed Universities in Western Germany and Switzerland, in order to secure six young men for Pennsylvania. The Universities visited by him were Herborn, Heidelberg, Zurich and Basle. At first a number of men volunteered, but gradually they all withdrew, so that it seemed doubtful for a while whether he would be able to succeed in his mission.

At last six young men were found in Herborn, with the cooperation of the faculty, who expressed their willingness to go to Pennsylvania. They were described by Schlatter as follows in a letter which he sent from Herborn to Holland, on February 17, 1752, namely; (1) Mr. Otterbein, quiet and pious; (2) Mr. Waldschmidt, honest and sincere; (3) Mr. Henspeter, resolute and seeking the good; (4) Mr. Stoy, intelligent and kind-hearted; (5) Mr. Frankenfeld, taciturn and willing; (6) Mr. Wissler, greatly gifted and generous. At the last moment one of them, Henspeter, withdrew, having yielded to the earnest entreaties of his mother to stay with her in Nassau. One of the professors of the University, Arnoldi, called these men "the flower of the young ministers in the county of Nassau." It was, indeed, a great sacrifice for the little church of Nassau to give up five of her best men for service in a distant land.

On February 29, 1752, Schlatter started with the five men for Holland, by way of Dillenburg, where three of the men (Otterbein, Waldschmidt and Wissler) were born. On March 9, 1752, the little company reached The Hague, Holland, where they appeared before the Deputies of the Synods, an Executive Committee on Foreign Missions.

Messrs. Otterbein and Wissler having already been ordained in Nassau, the Deputies gave them their commissions for Pennsylvania on March 13. The other three candidates were examined on March 11 in the languages (Greek and Hebrew) and in theology. The examination was conducted in Latin, as they were unable to speak Dutch. In this examination Stoy excelled; Waldschmidt and Frankenfeld passed well. They then subscribed the Dutch Creeds, the Heidelberg Catechism and the Canons of Dort. On the 14th of March they were set apart by a solemn service for their work in Pennsylvania.

Meanwhile a letter had come in, notifying the Deputies that in the county of Berg there was another candidate, J. C. Rubel, of Wald, who was willing to go. He was accepted to fill the place of the sixth Nassau candidate, who had withdrawn. Rubel was examined by the Deputies on April 5, and, being found satisfactory, was ordained for service in Pennsylvania. Schlatter and his party of six ministers left Amsterdam on April 26, 1752. They arrived at New York on July 27. There the missionaries were welcomed by Rev. H. M. Muehlenberg, the Patriarch of the Lutheran Church in Pennsylvania, who happened to be in New York at that time. Being invited to meet the new ministers, he greeted them with the words: "Behold, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves; be ye therefore wise as serpents and harmless as doves."

After the party had reached Pennsylvania, a special meeting of the Coetus was called on August 10-13, 1752, at Philadelphia, to assign them to their future fields of labor. They were assigned as follows: Mr. Otterbein to Lancaster, Mr. Stoy to Cocalico, Mr. Waldschmidt as Schlatter's assistant in Philadelphia, Mr. Rubel to Tulpehocken, Mr. Wissler to Egypt and Heidelberg, and Mr. Frankenfeld to Frederick, Maryland. Later, however, changes became necessary, so that Waldschmidt was sent to Cocalico and Stoy to Tulpehocken, while Rubel stayed in Philadelphia. Waldschmidt was installed in his congregations by Schlatter on October 22, 1752. According to Waldschmidt's own private records, his charge consisted at first of "Cocalico, Muddy Creek, White Oaks or Sebastian Reyer's and Seltenreich." As to the identity of these congregations it may be said that Cocalico is now Bethany Church at Ephrata (formerly one mile south of Ephrata); Muddy Creek still bears the same name and is in East Cocalico township; the original White Oaks Church was, according to the statement of Waldschmidt, at Sebastian Reyer's, which is now Zion's Church, near Brickerville, in Elizabeth township; and Seltenreich's Church is in Earl township, near New Holland. In the Coetal minutes of October, 1752, a petition was presented from the new congregation in White Oaks, while at the Coetus held at Cocalico in October, 1753, it was resolved that "the congregation at White Oaks be combined with the one at Bastian Reyer's and be served by Rev. Waldschmidt." This new congregation at White Oaks is today represented by the Jerusalem Church at Unionville in Penn township.

When Waldschmidt took charge of these congregations in 1752, their strength, as shown at the first communion services, was as follows: At Cocalico, 72 communicants; at Reyer's, 60; at Muddy Creek, 80; at Seltenreich, 70. At Muddy Creek he experienced considerable difficulty, as he was opposed by an independent preacher, Frederick Casimir Mueller. At the first meeting of Coetus which Waldschmidt attended at Lancaster, October 18-23, 1752, he declared himself satisfied with all his congregations, except Muddy Creek, where Mueller was preaching to a part of the congregation. Coetus advised him to continue preaching there until the Lord would remove this obstacle out of his way. He reported also that he was receiving ten pounds salary from each of his four congregations, and that he had schoolmasters in all his congregations, except at White Oaks. At the same meeting of Coetus 500 folio Bibles, printed at Basle in 1747, and presented by the Classis of Amsterdam to the Reformed Churches, were distributed to the various ministers, of which Waldschmidt received twenty-four copies. The Basle Bible, presented in 1755 by Schlatter to the Swamp Church, is still preserved by the congregation. The meeting of Coetus held at Lancaster in October, 1752, was closed with a thanksgiving sermon preached by Waldschmidt from Heb. 12:14. It was apparently the only sermon he ever preached before the Coetus.

The year 1753 was one of the more critical in the whole history of the Coetus of Pennsylvania. The organization of the Reformed Church, which had been brought about with so much pains by Schlatter, was threatened with dissolution. The congregations were thrown into disorder. The ministers were divided by party strife. There were two factions, one being led by Schlatter, the other by Weiss. The latter contended for Presbyterian representation, while Schlatter wished to exclude the elders, at least from some of the sessions. Fortunately peace was again restored in the following year, when Schlatter left the Coetus and his attempted reforms were forgotten. Waldschmidt sided in this struggle with Weiss, as is evident from the fact that he was present at the meeting of Coetus held at Goshenhoppen, the home of Weiss, and at the "Rival Coetus," which met in his charge at Cocalico, October 10-12, 1753. At the latter meeting Waldschmidt reports his salary at 35 pounds from Cocalico, Seltenreich and Muddy Creek. In the same year he is also reported as having purchased a farm of one hundred acres. On this farm his home was located, in which he resided to the end of his life.

In the year 1754 Waldschmidt gave up Muddy Creek, probably through the successful opposition of Mueller, who was still preaching there. His last communion was celebrated by him at Muddy Creek on June 22, 1754. To compensate him for this loss a new church was built in West Cocalico township, at Michael Amweg's, where he administered the first communion May 18, 1755. This is the present Swamp Church. But even in this new church Waldschmidt was not permitted to preach for any length of time, for he records the last communion service there on October 5, 1755.

In 1756 Rev. William Stoy left Tulpehocken to go to Philadelphia. Hence Waldschmidt was asked as the nearest minister to preach at Tulpehocken, and at the same time to supply Reading. Revs. Rieger and Otterbein were appointed to install him in his new congregation on July 6, 1756. At Reading Waldschmidt held the first communion on October 31, 1756, and in the two Tulpehocken congregations in November of the same year. At the end of this year (1756) he gave up Seltenreich, which was transferred to Rieger, perhaps with the view of devoting himself more fully to his new congregations. But he served them only for two years, when Otterbein became their pastor. In 1757 Waldschmidt began to serve Cacusi (now Hain's Church in Berks county), where he administered the first communion on May 15, 1757 When Rev. Tempelman became blind and was thus disabled from further service, Waldschmidt preached in his congregations for about a year. At Donegal he celebrated the first communion on April 6, 1760, in the Gruben Church, near Lebanon, (now extinct) on May 15, 1760, and at Quitpahilla (now Hill Church, near Annville,) on May 18, 1760. In May, 1760, the statistics of Waldschmidt were as follows: 50 baptisms for the year 1759 and 15 catechumens, and at Cocalico 120 members. In October, 1760, Rev. Leydich reported to Coetus about Waldschmidt's ministry: "His churches were satisfied with his preaching, but wished he might be more diligent in house visitation and more careful in his conduct." We cannot tell whether this criticism was justified, or whether it must be put down as captious fault finding, in which some people indulge so eagerly. When in the next year Rev. Stoy acted as Visitor of the Churches, he reported that Cocalico and White Oaks were "tolerably well satisfied with Rev. Waldschmidt." The personality of the visitor had evidently much to do with the judgment.

The year 1762 was remarkable in the ministry of Waldschmidt, because in it he gave up all his original congregations, whose pastor he had become in 1752. Thus he celebrated his last communion at Reyer's on September 19, 1762; at White Oaks on October 24, 1762, and at Cocalico on October 24, 1762. He was then pastor of Cacusi only and of Reading, where he preached occasionally between 1762-1765.

In 1765 he began to serve several new congregations, first Epler's Church in Berne township, Berks county, where he celebrated the first communion, March 17, 1765. In September of the same year he also took the old Berne Church for about two years, and finally he became once more the pastor of the church at Michael Amweg's, or the Swamp Church, in West Cocalico township, celebrating at the last place the first communion on April 14, 1765. Thus he had again with Cacusi four congregations. In January, 1767, he began to preach in a new congregation, at Allegheny, in Brecknock township, Berks county. These five congregations were more than he could well take care of, hence he dropped Berne in 1766, and Cacusi complained in 1771 of being neglected by him. As a result he resigned Cacusi, which was joined to the Reading charge. The remaining three congregations, Epler, Allegheny and Swamp (called Little Cocalico in the Coetus Minutes), remained faithful to him to the end of his life.

In 1757 Waldschmidt began to serve Cacusi (now St. John's, Hain's, Reformed Church) where he administered the first communion on May 15, 1757.

May 4, 1760, at Cacusi, the holy communion was held, 60 persons.

October 17, 1760, at Cacusy, the holy communion was held, 50 persons; informte and confirmed 4 boys and 3 girls.

Waldschmidt reports in the Coetus of Pennsylvania record of 1766: Baptized in his congregations on the Cacusy and at Bern and in the neighborhood, 30 children; received as members, 23; 55 children in the schools.

Cocalico and Cacusi consist of 50 families. Do. Waldschmidt received, from 1763 to 1764, 13 members. Most of the time 40 children attend school. From 1764 to 1765 the families remained the same, but 38 members were received from some distant families. The schools are very nearly the same. In the two years 65 children were baptized. The reason why he was not at the Coetus of 1764 was the heavy rains and the great floods.

HOME OF REV. JOHN WALDSCHMIDT, VINE MONT, PA.

After 1771 Waldschmidt retired almost completely from the meetings of the Coetus. He had never been prominent in its official labors. He had only once been its secretary, in 1758, but he had never taken a prominent part in its deliberations. After 1771 he never made a statistical report about his ministerial labors, except once in 1785, when he was present and gave the statistics, most likely orally, to the secretary. After 1773 he was never present at the meetings of the Coetus, except twice, in 1782 and 1785, when they were held near his home in Reading. But in his congregations he remained active almost to the very last. The last communion service recorded in his records took place in Allegheny Church on October 23, 1785. The last baptism was performed by him on September 12, 1786. He died two days later.

One of his sons entered the following statement regarding his father's death into the record :

God the Almighty called our dear father out of this world to Himself into a blissful eternity, on the fourteenth of September, 1786, between nine and ten o'clock in the forenoon. On the fifteenth of September, in the afternoon at two o'clock, his remains were committed to the grave. The Rev. Mr. Boas preached the funeral sermon from Psalm 73 : 23-24. God grant that we all be united with him. Amen."

The tombstone was erected October 6, 1787. It cost 7.12 shillings.

A circumstance in connection with his tombstone happened about six years later, which was thought very singular, and which is not only traditionally remembered in our neighborhood, but we find a record of it in the church book. On a Sunday, June 2, 1793, while a large congregation was assembled in the church, listening to the Word of God, and when the winds were quiet, the tombstone of Rev. Waldschmidt suddenly broke off at the top and fell flat upon the tomb. Many saw it and all heard it fall. The wonder in connection with this event was vastly increased in the minds of the people by the fact that Mrs. Waldschmidt, who was demented long before and had not spoken a word for years, began to speak again with others on that same day.

The tombstone has a German inscription, of which the following is a literal translation :

"God alone be glory !
 Here rests in God the Reverend Johannes Waldschmidt.
 Born August 6, 1724.
 Ordained for the Ministry 1752.
 [Here is the break]
 Died September 14, 1786.
 Age 62 years 5 weeks 4 days."

The Erection of the Second Church, 1766.

During this second period the congregation built a new, substantial church, which as to size and manner of construction must at that early time have been a great undertaking. It was built of limestone walls three feet thick, 40 feet wide (north and south) and 50 feet long (east and west), and 30 feet high to the square, or roof plates. From the square to the ridge of the roof was 20 feet, making the total height 50 feet. The east end was surmounted by a tower 17 feet high, on which was a weather vane, in the form and shape of a rooster, cut out or cast of tin and lead. This figure was borrowed from Holland. The ceiling was in form of two segments meeting in the centre of the width of the building on the inside. It was supported or held in place by heavy hewn timbers nearly 40 feet long, placed at from center to center, resting on the wall plates and supported by being bolted and keyed to a heavy beam running the entire length, on which a king truss of unusually heavy timber is constructed, itself supported by queen trusses for supporting the roof timbers and roof. The whole of the space on the inside, 34x44 feet, walls and ceiling, was neatly plastered and finished with a white coat in a workmanlike manner. The door frames were made out of red sandstone, as well as the doorsills, the frames, two centre parts and semicircle top pieces meeting keystone in centre over top of door. On the part of the frame above the base pieces a heavy moulding was cut, touching the walls at sides and meeting at keystone. The face of the frame was embellished by having a line of transverse beading cut or raised near inside edge of the frame, the whole showing exquisite workmanship. The east and west sides had each four windows—two as first story and two as second story. The south or front side had two windows for the first story and three as to second story windows, while the north side had only two first story and two second story windows. Over the door at the main entrance fronting south a red sandstone at least 2x3 feet and not less than 4 to 6 inches in thickness, the face thereof finely dressed and finished, was placed containing an inscription of Roman letters cut in the face of the stone, as follows:

FACE OF THE STONE.

The face of the stone was painted with a good white color, and the cut letters were painted black.

THE INTERIOR OF THE CHURCH.

The inside walls had a finish of good plaster, neat and white. The floor was brick pavement. There were galleries on three sides. The fronts of the galleries were laid out in nine panels, three on each side, on which were carved in most exquisite workmanship and skill scenes taken from the Bible, beginning with the fall of man in the garden of Eden and ending with the redemption. The columns on which the gallery was supported were of the doric architecture. The pulpit was the wine glass, resting on a single column overshadowing the altar, all enclosed by the chancel, thus uniting the Word and Sacrament, a true expression of this liberty loving church. In many of the churches of this period you will find the pulpit and altar separated, which was never the case in this church, nor were the pews made so that they would hide the persons sitting in them. They had no doors to them, as to say that this is the place where there are no secrets. The church was heated by a large stove, in which cord wood could be burned. The height of the church was 30 feet on the inside.

The posts or columns at the main entrance were like that of the temple—Jachin was on the right and Boaz on the left—the true temple idea, thus uniting the state by the arch, the strongest tie in masonry, with the Keystone, the sign of the state of Pennsylvania.

John Christ Ammann.

Pastor Ammann, who served the Hain's Church from 1789 to 1792, during the absence of Pastor Boos, appears by the records to have been a man of some scholarly attainments. So far no definite record of his birth or education for the ministry has been obtained. He was at the time quite likely a young man, and has preached in a number of churches in this section, in all probabili-ity becoming the successor of Pastor Waldschmidt in the Swamp and other churches.

The records of baptisms show that the congregation flourished during his pastorate, and that peace and harmony prevailed; that upon the return of Rev. Boos he, by the appearance of the records, yielded and surrendered the pastorate without any protest in the same manner and form as he entered upon said pastorate.

No record of his residence or death is extant, known at this time by us.

Waldschmidt served from fall of 1757 to spring of 1771.

Boos from 1771 to 1789.

John Christ Ammann from 1789 to 1792.

Boos from 1792 to 1810.

Rev. John W. Boos.

Before the Reformed Coetus met in 1771, a new minister had arrived from Holland, Rev. John William Boos. (The original form of his family name is no doubt Boas.) He was born at Otterberg in the Palatinate in 1739. He appeared before the Synodical Deputies on May 2, 1768. Then he studied for several years at the University of Utrecht. The news of his intended coming had preceded him, and as many Reformed congregations were vacant, he was eagerly awaited by Coetus and people. But when he came, they were greatly disappointed, because he had no letter of recommendation from the Fathers in Holland. The reason was, according to the minutes of the Synodical Deputies, his inability to pass the required examinations. But the congregation at Reading was so anxious to secure the services of a minister that they did not wait for the action of Coetus, but asked Rev. Boos immediately to become their pastor, to which he readily assented. Soon afterwards a committee of the Coetus appeared in Reading, consisting of Gross, Hendel, Bucher and Gobrecht. They advised the congregation to dismiss Boos, because he had not been sent by the Holland Synods. But all their pleas were in vain. The people presented their need so urgently that the committee finally allowed Boos to stay with them. This action was confirmed by Coetus in 1771, after the people had given Boos a regular call. This permission, however, did not imply the reception of Mr. Boos into Coetus.

The report laid before Coetus at this time concerning his conduct and preaching was very favorable. He himself presented the following parochial report: 80 families, 38 baptisms, 40 confirmed, 75 pounds salary and 86 scholars in the parochial school.

In the year 1772 Boos was allowed to serve Cacusi or Heidelberg (now St. John's Hain's Reformed Church). He preached for them every third Sunday. His people in Reading objected at first to this arrangement, but Coetus decided "that as long as this congregation had love and affection for him, he should serve it." The congregation at Reading petitioned Coetus again at this meeting to allow Boos to preach another year and receive him as a member of Coetus. The congregation received the following reply:

"That the Rev. Coetus by virtue of the last letter from the Fathers concerning Mr. Boos could not care for him, much less admit him into the Coetus without further and more favorable news from the Rev. Fathers in regard to him. But Mr. Boos shall be left to them, in order to perform the duties relating to their divine service as long as no complaint come against him, and Mr. Boos succeeds in edifying them."

In 1777 Coetus met for the third time at Reading, on April 28 and 29. In the Coetal letter of that year the officers of Coetus report "the prosperous condition of the church at Reading." Writing of Mr. Boos they said:

"By the assistance of the Most High and by extraordinary zeal and diligence in all parts of his excellent ministry among them he has brought the congregation to such order that it is second to none of the congregations in America. Mr. Boos is at present a learned and brave warrior of Jesus Christ, and of a blameless walk in life. Not only liked by the whole congregation at Reading, but likewise all the members of Coetus treat him with special esteem and friendship. Therefore we all beg of the Rev. Fathers to kindly accept Mr. Boos, since it would be to the disadvantage of the Church in this country to refuse such a worthy and sincere servant of Jesus Christ."

The answer of the Fathers in Holland was not favorable to this earnest and eloquent request, and hence the congregation was again left to itself and its minister, leaving no record in the Coetus minutes.

During the period 1789 to 1792 he had gone to Europe, in all probability to be regularly ordained and be admitted to Coetus.

The several reports in preceding years lead towards such proceedings.

While he was not ordained, no records appear that he ever did anything that could be construed, to be antagonistic of the Reformed faith as taught by the Heidelberg Catechism, neither in any way interfered with the labors of the regularly ordained pastors of the neighboring Reformed churches and congregations, but confined himself strictly to serving the congregations of those churches who had called for him. From reminiscences we have that he, Mr. Boos, was a well educated man, and in his catechising of the youth of this congregation he insisted on a thorough knowledge of the tenets of the Heidelberg Catechism, always impressing at his services the solemnity, especially of the Sacraments. He was while in the prime of his life regarded as a fluent speaker, and always at the close of his sermons made a brief summary for the special benefit of his audience. He was very fervent in his prayers and supplications before the throne of grace, noted for his zealous pleadings to have his petitions answered. An anecdote of a particular service which he held during the latter part of his ministry at Hain's church serves as a proof of pastor Boos being on certain occasions regarded more than a common preacher, at least by some people. It happened that during the summer of that time there was a great drought, so much so that the ground was parched and vegetation appeared scorched.

Pastor Boos had regular services at Hain's. He referred to the drought in his sermon, and at the close in a prayer of unusual fervor and supplication pleaded that God would answer the petitions of his people by letting rain fall in such abundance as to moisten the parched ground and save the life of vegetation, and thereby prevent famine and desolation in the land. After the services the people returned to their homes, and about the time all had arrived at their destinations, a heavy rain gathered, so much so that the stream known as Spring Creek (Brunnekil) overflowed its banks and carried away fences and other obstacles in its path. An Englishman, who being a manufacturer was located about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles northwest from the church, had attended the services, and suffered considerable damage through the flooding of Spring Creek. His neighbors, after the waters had receded to its normal flow, gladly for the sake of having such a good rain, proceeded to restore the fences and put things in good order. The manufacturer, however, appeared to be averse to restore his fences or make any effort to repair any of the damage he had suffered through the rain. Upon being asked by his neighbors if he would not rebuild his fence, he gave the following answer: "Bat nix; Boos widder bet, geets widder all weg" ("It is no use; Boos again prays, it will go away again.")

The following story is related of Rev. Boos, which illustrates how quick-witted he was: At Fasig's hotel in Reading (now Berks County House), in the early part of the nineteenth century on his way to market (Rev. Boos resided at the southeast corner of Ninth and Penn streets), he was called upon to marry a runaway couple in the hotel. Prompt action was required, as the father of the bride was in pursuit of the couple. Parson Boos told the couple to stand up, and he was just beginning the ceremony, when the father entered the room. By an act of strategy he foiled him. Just as the father entered, Rev. Boos said "Amen," and told him he was too late, the ceremony being over. The father seeing himself defeated, turned around and left the room, and then Mr. Boos married the young people.

It appears that the congregation met with unusual prosperity during this second period of its existence.

The encroachments of the different sects which during the first period had attempted to lead the people from the tenets of their faith and teaching of the Heidelberg Catechism had utterly failed, and had dwindled next to obscurity as far as it related to this Church, and the members became united as of one mind under an independent form of administration and liberty for which they were longing before they and their descendants had set foot on the American soil. This spirit shows itself plainly through all this period by having as its pastor Rev. Boos, who was not properly ordained for a period of nearly 40 years, but who appears to have been a man that conscientiously attended to his duties as far as it related to the service rendered this congregation.

Towards the close of his ministry at this congregation Pastor Boos was quite feeble, so that his mind became clouded and his discourses were somewhat rambling and disconnected. By his long and faithful pastorate he became endeared to the congregation, and in his declining years, when he was no longer able to serve them, was loath to discharge him or elect another pastor in his stead. An example of his unselfish devotion to the Church in general, regardless of being not ordained and repeatedly turned down by the Classis of Amsterdam and not admitted into the Coetus, nothing appears of record done by him which reflects on his character or otherwise is a blemish on the Reformed doctrine. On the contrary, his irreproachable manhood and character is shown when approached by Spangenberg, who was for a time under his tutorship but emphatically declined to ordain him as a minister of the gospel.

When Mr. Boos withdrew from Reading at the end of the year 1781, he continued to serve Cacusi, now St. John's Hain's Reformed Church. In the church record of that congregation he entered 589 baptisms from October 23, 1771, to August 17, 1789. From January, 1784, to November, 1788, he also served the Bern Church in Bern township, Berks county, Pennsylvania. He evidently returned to Reading in the spring of 1784, for on April 16, 1784, he purchased the property at the southwest corner of Ninth and Penn streets from Jacob Bower, a prominent Reformed member, for 450 pounds Pennsylvania money. It was lot No. 176 in the original plan of the town, and was 60 feet on Penn street by 270 feet on South Ninth street. Here Mr. Boos evidently resided until his death in 1814. The title of this property was traced back to the Penns. Mr. Nicholas Dick, grandfather of Mr. Amos L. Dick, of Reading, one of the oldest members of the First Reformed Church, was married to a sister of Rev. J. W. Boos, and resided next door to him. On November 9, 1822, the administrator of Rev. Boos sold the above property, together with three other properties, to Dr. James B. Cherington for $2,600.

Rev. Mr. Boos died on November 28, 1814, aged 75 years. He had been married to Barbara Epler, of Bern township, and was the father of eight children. He always wrote his name Boos, but his descendants changed the name to Boas. The change seems to have been made by his children. His son John was a consistent worker in the Church, and Jacob was the father of Augustus F. Boas, the well-known banker of Reading.

Independent Preachers

The question suggests itself, why were there so many independent preachers? By examining the records of the lives of the men, there can be but one conclusion, viz., that all reformations do not come from the head, but from the bottom. "The voice of the people is the voice of God," and such must have been the case in those formative periods of our country when the rule of the people took form and overturned those ideas of kingship and those who thought they were called of God to rule over the people and direct the affairs of mankind.

In examining the pages of history in the Roman Empire we have the Plebs, the lower order of the ancient Roman people, as distinguished from the upper order, or Patricians—originally, conquered Latin tribes that were allowed no share in the government. After a long struggle they obtained equal influence and authority with the patricians, until in 300 B. C. the distinction practically vanished, to be followed by an aristocracy of office and wealth, to which both alike had access. In Europe we have the peasant, a small landed proprietor or leaseholder, who tills the soil; a petty farmer; a farm laborer; any rustic workman; an uncultured countryman. We have Greek and barbarian; Jew and heathen. It is true that our forefathers came from a land where freedom was born, but be it ever remembered that those who had to face the trials of life, and through it lost all, were by force of circumstances better qualified to make the all important change than those who were more favored by station and wealth and education.

Caste, that is the division of society on artificial grounds, such as hereditary privilege, wealth or social orders; this is best illustrated in the life and labors of Rev. Dr. William Stoy.

Dr. Stoy came to this country as a young man in July, 1752. He was of the six ministers whom Mr. Schlatter brought with him on his return to this country. They had been ordained by the Classis of Amsterdam, and appointed to labor in the destitute Churches in America.

In 1756 the congregation in Philadelphia became vacant by the resignation of the Rev. Steiner, who removed to Frederick, in Maryland. Mr. Stoy was requested by Coetus to supply that congregation for a year, with the hope, as it seems, that he would become its permanent pastor. This was also Rev. Stoy's wish. He was not successful, however, in retaining the good-will and confidence of the congregation. Difficulties arose soon after he came to Philadelphia, growing out of the circumstance of his contracting and consummating marriage in a clandestine manner, which the congregation regarded as both imprudent and improper—imprudent, because his choice fell upon a "stocking-weaver's daughter," and improper, because she was at the time, by the consent of her parents, solemnly-engaged to a young shoemaker. In regard to the first point, our fathers may have been too severe; since virtue and worth may also be found in humble life. Whether this was the case in this instance the documents do not reveal, but charity hopes so. A feeling of settled dislike was thereby awakened against him, and in a little more than a year he was forced to leave Philadelphia.

It would seem that Mr. Stoy also at one time resided in Reading. We have before us now a long original letter and document from him, directed to Joseph Reed, Esq., President of the Supreme Executive Council of the State of Pennsylvania, on "The Present Mode of Taxation." It is dated "Reading, December 17th, 1799," and the endorsement which the recipient made on it is: "Rev. William Stoy, of Reading; his remark on the present mode of taxation!" This interesting and characteristic letter and document is written in English, in Mr. Stoy's own hand. It exhibits the extent of his knowledge of the English language, shows what interest he took in political matters, manifests much of his spirit and manner of thinking and speaking, and is in many respects of much interest.

It shows his patriotism, his hatred to aristocracy and monopolies, his sympathy with the laboring class and with the poor, his honesty, sincerity, and earnest desire to preserve the rights of private citizens and promote the welfare of the State. It is said that frequent communications, on political subjects, from Dr. Stoy appeared in the "Reading Adler" at an early date.

Dr. Stoy was the first to introduce inoculation against the small-pox, that merciful remedy, in the Lebanon valley. For some time there were only six families in the valley who permitted him to operate; the general feeling was that it was a wicked attempt to thwart Providence; but his influence, and with it the remedy, gradually prevailed over all prejudice.

In dress and manners he appeared as one of the people. He had a strong prejudice against black clothes and was in the habit of speaking in strong terms against "black coats."

From the fathers of the Reformed Church we learn that Rev. Boos had a great influence over Rev. Stoy, as is manifested by the life and character of these two men, and more especially so in their identity with the people whom they served and the independent spirit that was rife with the people in the formative period of our country.

These men were against all things that made a distinction between the people, such as all castes, escutcheons, crowns, heraldries, sacerdotal robes, signs, insignias and badges. They believed in a true democracy, and anything that savored after the old order of things was discarded and held in derision; no more kings, monarchs, potentates, popes, dignitaries and priests; the cross, crown and scepter shall no longer hold sway and cause the people to march under the yoke of oppression, humiliation and shame and degradation, but the people, the whole people and nothing but the people, shall rule in this land of freedom and religious liberty, where equal opportunity shall be to all and favoritism to none:—

“God that made the world, and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshipped with men’s hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things; and hath made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the time before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation; that they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us: For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring. Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man’s device.”—Acts 17 : 24 29.

During the Revolution.

At this time the country was but sparsely settled, and communication was exceedingly difficult. Rev. William Stoy reports that Reading in 1756 had 520 lots, of which 241 were sold, and it has been estimated that Reading had at that time about 200 dwelling houses and nearly a thousand inhabitants. It was in every sense of the word, as it has proved itself up to the present time, a prosperous and enterprising town. Reading was laid out in the fall of 1748. The place was named after Reading in Berkshire, England, the native place of the Penns. The land upon which the city is located had belonged to William Penn. He received it by a grant from Charles II, king of England, and he also purchased the interest of the Indians in the land. After his death the property passed into the possession of his two sons, Thomas and Richard Penn. The town was located at the ford of the Schuylkill, which was the great highway from the Tulpehocken settlement under Conrad Weiser to Philadelphia.

The first reference to a Reformed church or congregation is in the year 1753. The earliest record of the first church in Reading was commenced in 1755. Thus Hain's Church kept a record 10 years before there was a church in Reading; but for a century there existed the closest relationship between the people of St. John's (Hain's) Reformed Church and that of the people of Reading, and they were often served by the same minister, and inspired by the same zeal, patriotism and religious liberty.

Many of the founders of the Reformed Church had left their homes in the Palatinate on account of religious persecution. They had longed for a country of civil and religious liberty, and they sought it in America. It was only natural that when England oppressed her American colonies that the Reformed people resolved to throw off the foreign yoke and be an independent nation. Our people always protested against slavery, as they were a liberty-loving people.

WHIG AND TORY.

These two nicknames, which came into use about 1680, immediately became familiar words, and have since been retained as designations of opposite political sides, the Tories being, generally speaking, the adherents of the ancient constitution of England without change, and the supporters of regal, ecclesiastical and aristocratic authority, while the Whigs had been advocates of such changes in the constitution as tend in the direction of democracy. Now these names have been superseded to a great extent by the names of Conservative and Liberal as party designations.

An attractive and fertile place as the Lebanon Valley would naturally bring within its bounds people who believed in slavery, as is proven by the following advertisement copied from a Reading newspaper:

"To be sold for cash or short credit: viz. A Negro Wench, between 30 and 35 years of age, and fit for either town or country business. For further information enquire of the printer or the subscriber, living in Heidelberg township, Berks county, Pennsylvania.

"October 13, 1790.

ISAAC COPLAND."

This was not the only case, for there were other cases where slaves were kept; and the cruel treatment they received by the hand of their owners arouses a feeling of indignation as you listen to the recital of the same, but be it said to the honor of our people that they never kept slaves, but fought against the very idea with all their might. It is due to the German and the Pa-latinate that the country was saved from the English yoke of oppression, and the members of the Reformed churches in Heidelberg, Bern and Reading came to the aid of Washington, and supplied his army with everything this community could produce in the form of horses, wagons, flour and ammunition. Rev. J. W. Boos was the pastor at Reading and at Hain's Church in Heidelberg township during the Revolution. During this period the Reformed Church at Reading was for some time occupied as a hospital for sick soldiers. There were then only three churches in Reading—the Reformed, the Lutheran and the Quaker—and all were used as hospitals.

REV. JOHN WESLEY GILBERT NEVELING.

Rev. John Wesley Gilbert Neveling was born in Westphalia, Germany, in the year 1750, and came to this country in 1763, and was ordained in July, 1772.

During the War of the Revolution Neveling served in the army as chaplain, and was held in high esteem by General Washington. As an evidence of the important influence he exerted, it may be mentioned that the British government offered a large reward for his apprehension, and that on one occasion Washington placed a troop of horses at his disposal to protect him against those who sought his life.

Rev. Neveling had hardly been in Reading a year, apparently very successful in his work, when his useful ministry was cut short by a sad accident. One day as he was riding on horseback to one of his country congregations, with a pipe in his mouth, the horse stumbled and fell, pushing the stem of the pipe so violently into his throat that it injured his vocal organs and permanently disabled him from preaching again. Thus he was cut off in the prime of his life, and after a few years paralysis lamed him completely. Some years later he became blind. Henceforth he remained a helpless invalid for more than sixty years. But the full measure of his sufferings was not yet exhausted, for another affliction soon befel him. When the War of the Revolution broke out and Continental Congress was sorely in need of money, he turned all his property into cash and loaned the government the whole sum, amounting to $25,000, receiving only the certificate of Congress as his security. Of this he was in some way defrauded, and as a result lost all his money, which reduced him to absolute poverty. By the noble efforts of his brethren in the ministry he and his large family were kept from starvation. This noble patriot and champion of American liberty, ready to sacrifice all his possessions for the cause of his country, died as a very old man of 94 years, in Philadelphia, on January 18, 1844.

At a meeting of the freeholders and other inhabitants of Berks county, held in the Court House at Reading, July 2, 1774,

Edward Biddle, Esq., in the chair, the following resolutions were adopted:

"This assembly, taking into their serious consideration the present critical situation of American affairs, do unanimously resolve as follows, viz.:

"1. That the inhabitants of this county owe, and will pay due allegiance to our rightful Sovereign, King George the Third.

"2. That the powers claimed, and now attempted to be put into execution by the British Parliament, are fundamentally wrong, and cannot be admitted without the utter destruction of the liberties of America.

"3. That the Boston Port Bill is unjust and tyrannical in the extreme, and that the measures pursued against Boston are intended to operate equally against the rights and liberties of the other colonies.

"4. That this assembly doth concur in opinion with their respective brethren of Philadelphia, that there is an absolute necessity for an immediate congress of the deputies of the several advices, in order to deliberate upon and pursue such measures as may radically heal our present unhappy disturbances, and settle with precision the rights and liberties of America.

"5. That the inhabitants of this country, confiding in the prudence and ability of the deputies intended to be chosen for the general congress, will cheerfully submit to any measures which may be found by the said congress best adapted for the restoration of harmony between the mother country and the colonies, and for the security and firm establishment of the rights of America.

"6. That, as the people of Boston are now suffering in the grand cause of American liberty, Resolved, That it is the duty of all the inhabitants to contribute to the support of said sufferers, and that the committee hereafter named do open subscriptions for their relief. And further, that the said committee do lay out the amount of such subscriptions in purchasing flour and other provisions, to be sent by them to our suffering brethren.

"7. That Edward Biddle, James Read, Daniel Brodhead, Henry Christ, Esq., Christopher Schultz, Thomas Dundas and Jonathan Potts, gentlemen, be, and they are hereby appointed a committee to meet and correspond with the committee from the other counties of the Province."

DANIEL BRODHEAD.

Daniel Brodhead was born at Albany, New York, in 1725. In 1738 his father migrated to Pennsylvania and settled in Monroe county, now East Stroudsburg, where he grew up in a frontier life. Their house was attacked by Indians in 1755. In 1771 he removed to Heidelberg township, Berks county, where he purchased a grist mill and carried on the milling business. Soon after he was appointed deputy surveyor under John Lukens, Surveyor-General. In July, 1775, he was appointed a delegate from Berks county to the Provincial Convention at Philadelphia. In March, 1776, he was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of Miles' Rifle Regiment; and in October following he was transferred to the Third Pennsylvania Battalion, known as Shee's. On March 12, 1777, he was promoted to Colonel of the 8th Pennsylvania Continental Line, to rank from September 29, 1776. Upon the capture of Colonel Miles, at the battle of Long Island, in August, 1776, the command of the remainder of the battalion devolved upon him, and he was, in fact, after the battle, in command of the whole Pennsylvania contingent, being then the senior officer remaining in the army. In 1789 he represented Berks county in the General Assembly and participated in the important discussion relating to the alteration and amendment of the Constitution of 1776. He voted in the affirmative. Subsequently, in the same year, when the Assembly reconvened, he voted for the calling of a convention to amend the Constitution. He died November 15, 1809.

CONRAD ECKERT.

Conrad Eckert was born at Longasalza, in the Kingdom of Hanover, on February 6, 1741. During that year his father, John Eckert, emigrated from the place named to Pennsylvania and settled in Heidelberg township, Berks county, Pennsylvania. He was brought up at farming, and when a young man became a blacksmith, which he pursued for some time. When the Revolution began he was one of the active Associators of the county. As such he commanded a company which was raised in Heidelberg township, and became a part of the First Battalion, commanded by Colonel Henry Haller. His company afterwards formed a part of Spyker's Battalion, and participated in the campaign at and about Germantown and White Marsh during the fall of 1777. In this service he was wounded in the battle at the former place, and his health in consequence became so impaired that he never fully recovered. Upon his return from military service he carried on farming on the Eckert homestead, near Womelsdorf, until his death, August 25, 1791. He was married to Elizabeth Hain, in Heidelberg township, by whom he had seven sons. John, Peter, George, David, Daniel, Solomon and Conrad, and two daughters, Catharine (married to Henry Copenhagen) and Barbara (married to Daniel Reeser). His remains were buried in the graveyard connected with Hain's Church.

JOHN PATTON.

In the campaign beginning with the battle of Long Island he commanded a regiment, but the only mention of it was found in connection with the march of the company of Captain John Leshar from Womelsdorf, by way of Kutztown and the East Penn valley, to Perth Amboy, in 1776. The regimental officers were from Tulpehocken and Heidelberg townships. In 1774 John Patton was assessed in Heidelberg township. By the amount of the assessment, he was evidently a rich property owner. By the Colonial Records it appears that he supplied the Continental army with cannon balls; and to this day many of those cannon balls can be seen as ornamentations on gate posts and in the yards.

JACOB SCHAEFFER.

Jacob Schaeffer, born in Heidelberg township, January 6, 1754; married to Margaretha Filmsmeyer; served in the Revolutionary War; died December 6, 1816, aged 59 years and 6 months. His body is interred in Hain's graveyard.

BATTALION.

The following names are mentioned in the Battalions from Heidelberg township:

4th Battalion, 6th Company—Conrad Eckert, Adam Hain, Peter Young, Mathias Wenrich, Peter Kuhl and Simpson Hain.

1st Company—John Leshner, Isaac Depuy, John Anspach, Valentine Reed, Martin Stupp and Jacob Weiser.

4th Company—Conrad Weiser, Daniel Womelsdorf, Henry Walter, George Gensemer, Jacob Seltzer and George Brown.

8th Company—Philip Filbert, Philip Moyer, Francis Artellia, Leonard Zerbe, Henry Knopp and Samuel Boyer.

COMPANY OF CAPT. JACOB LIVINGOOD.

By the Colonial Records it appears that Jacob Livingood, of Womelsdorf, formed a company of riflemen in Heidelberg township during the latter part of September, 1781, but there is no record of their names.

The members of the Reformed Church throughout the county stood as a man for the cause of freedom, and stood shoulder to shoulder for the defense of their country, such men as Joseph Hiester, of Bern township; Nicholas Dick, Joseph Dick, Henry Diehl, David Fox, John Fox, Andrew Fichthorn, Henry Miller, Michael Madeira, Peter Nagel, Philip Nagel, George Price, Daniel Rose, John Row, Michael Reifsnnyder, John Snell, George Snell, John Strohecker, George Yeager, and many others. In all wars we hear but little of the soldier who has to face the cannon and bear the brunt of the battle.

FIRST RECOMMENDATION FOR PRAYER.

The first recommendation for prayer made by Congress on December 11, 1776, is as follows:

"WHEREAS, The just war into which the United States of America have been forced by Great Britain is likely to be still continued by the same violence and injustice which have hitherto animated the enemies of American freedom.

“AND WHEREAS, It becomes all public bodies, as well as private persons, to reverence the Providence of God and look up to Him as the Supreme Disposer of all events, and the Arbiter of the Fate of Nations, therefore the Congress hereby resolve

“That it be recommended to all the States, as soon as possible to appoint a day of solemn fasting and humiliation, to implore of Almighty God the forgiveness of the many sins prevailing among all ranks, and to beg the countenance and assistance of His Providence in the prosecution of this just and necessary war. The Congress do also, in the most earnest manner, recommend to all the members of the United States, and particularly to the officers, Civil and Military, under them, the exercise of repentance and reformation; and further, do require of the said officers of the Military Department the strict observation of the Articles of War in general, and particularly that of the said Article which forbids profane swearing, and all other immoralities, of which all such officers are desired to take notice. It is left to each State to issue Proclamations, fixing the day that appears the most proper for their several bounds.

“For Pennsylvania, Thursday, April 3, 1777.”

A PROCLAMATION.

“The time is at length come in which the fate of ourselves, our wives, children and property must be speedily determined. General Howe, at the head of a British army, the only hope and last resource of our enemies, has invaded this State, dismissing his ships and disencumbering himself of his heavy artillery and baggage. He appears to have risked all upon the event of a movement which must either deliver up to plunder and devastation this Capitol of Pennsylvania and of America, or forever blast the cruel designs of our implacable foes.

“Blessed be God, Providence seems to have left it to ourselves to determine whether we shall triumph in victory and rest in freedom and peace, or, by tamely submitting or weakly resisting, deliver ourselves up a prey to an enemy, than whom none more cruel and perfidious was ever suffered to vex and destroy any people.

“View then, on the one hand, the freedom and independence, the glory and happiness of our rising States, which are set before us as the reward of our courage. Seriously consider on the other hand the wanton ravages, the rapes and butcheries which have been perpetrated by these men in the State of New Jersey and on the frontiers of New York. Above all, consider the mournful prospect of seeing Americans like the wretched inhabitants of India stripped of their freedom, robbed of their property, degraded beneath the brutes and left to starve amid plenty at the will of their lordly masters, and let us determine once for all that we will DIE or be free.

"The foe are manifestly aiming either by force to conquer or by stratagem and stolen marches to elude the vigilance of our brave commander, and declining a battle with our countrymen, they have attempted to steal upon us by surprise. They have been hitherto defeated, but numbers are absolutely necessary to watch them on every quarter at once. The neighboring States are hurrying forward their militia, and we hope by rising as one man, and besetting the foe at a distance from his fleet, we shall speedily enclose him like a lion in his toils.

"The Council therefore most humbly beseech and entreat all persons whatsoever to exert themselves without delay to seize this present opportunity of crushing the foe now in the bowels of our country, by marching forth instantly under their respective officers to the assistance of our great general, that he may be able to environ and demolish the only British army that remains formidable in America or in the world. Animated with the hope of heaven—as before it has done in all times of difficulty and danger—will again crown our righteous efforts with success, we look forward to the prospect of seeing our insulting foe cut off from all means of escape, and by the goodness of the Almighty, the Lord of Hosts and God of Battles, wholly delivered into our hands."

This was a cry from the depth of the soul. It was come for our liberty. The people had no weapons, so come with axes, spears, anything that you can lay your hand on, that may aid you in the defense of our country and our liberty. This day of prayer was observed from 1777 to 1783.

IN THE NAME AND BY THE AUTHORITY OF THE FREEMEN OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA,

THOS. MIFFLIN.

THE SUPREME EXECUTIVE COUNCIL OF THE SAID COMMONWEALTH,

TO CONRAD KERSHNER, ESQ.:

We, reposing especial trust and confidence in your patriotism, valour, conduct and fidelity, do, by these presents, constitute and appoint you to be Captain of the Seventh Company of Foot in the Third Battalion of Militia in the County of Berks. You are, therefore, carefully and diligently to discharge the duty of Captain by doing and performing all manner of things thereunto belonging. And we do strictly charge and require all officers and soldiers under your command, to be obedient to your orders as Captain. And you are to observe and follow such orders and directions as you shall, from time to time, receive from the Supreme Executive Council of this Commonwealth, or from your superior officers, according to the Rules and Discipline of War, and in pursuance of the Acts of Assembly of this State. This Commission to continue in force until your term, by the laws of this State, shall of course expire.

Given in Council under the hand and seal of the President, and the lesser seal of the State, at Philadelphia, this first day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine.

Organ.

In the year 1795 the congregation purchased a new organ, built by Tannenberg, of Lititz, Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. The organ had $4\frac{1}{2}$ octaves, 8 stops, of which one was a triplet consisting of 3 pipes for each note, making a combination of piccolo and other similar tuned voiced instruments; this key or stop was, however, very seldom used by any organist, excepting on occasions of large congregations being assembled, and on the people leaving the church after services.

The front of the organ consisted of metal pipes and not painted; the case of the organ was painted white. On the keyboard the keys that sound the notes in the diatonic scale were black, while the remainder were white—just the opposite from what they are today. The bellows were not built in the organ, but resting on the floor or ceiling above the organ; the wind came down through tubes connecting with the wind-chest in the organ. The bellows were operated by ropes run over pulleys above the ceiling and run down close to the wall back of the organ. There was no tremolo stop, but by manipulating the ropes or pulling them in a quivering way the effect of the tremolo was very effectively produced. When there was a funeral the organist gave special caution and instruction to the one manipulating the ropes to pull them in such a way as to produce the proper effect, but at such occasions the temptations were often too great for the one pulling the ropes, who would pretend that he did not understand how to pull the ropes, and so he gave them sudden jerks and thus produced very ludicrous sounds, to the discomfort of the organist and to the merriment of those on the gallery.

Rev. Philip Mayer.

Philip Mayer was a son of George Mayer and Euphronia, nee Kercher, and the name of his grandfather was John Mayer, who came to America in 1750 from that part of Germany known as Upper Host in Rhine Bairen. He was born in Tulpehocken township, Berks county, Pennsylvania, May 12, 1783. His parents were in moderate circumstances. The richest dowery they left him was his early consecration to God in the ordinance of holy baptism, and the heaviest loss he sustained was the early death of his father and mother, leaving him, when only five years old, a homeless orphan. A kindly-disposed uncle, Mr. Jacob Stetler, was appointed over him as guardian. He attended, as well as he could, to his early education. At the age of fourteen he was thoroughly instructed by his pastor in the doctrine of the Heidelberg Catechism, and after sustaining a very creditable examination he was confirmed and received into full communion with the German Reformed Church. It was while attending this blessed instruction that a desire of becoming a minister of the Gospel was awakened in his youthful breast. His heart was deeply affected and his mind powerfully exercised in this direction, but there were great difficulties in the way of realizing these fond wishes. In his very soul he had consecrated himself to the blessed work of preaching the Gospel, but how to prepare himself for the sacred office he knew not. The call to the ministry he felt and acknowledged, but there was neither friend nor money to educate him for the solemn and responsible work. After exhausting all his own resources, and doing what he could to improve his mind and prepare himself for his future calling, he providentially made the acquaintance of the venerable pastor of the German Reformed Church in the city of Baltimore. He was generously encouraged to come to the city in order to pursue his studies, and thus prepare himself for the holy ministry. Receiving some assistance from a pious and benevolent maiden lady, he started off with a glad heart and a thankful spirit for the city of Baltimore, and there prosecuted his theological studies under the care and tuition of the learned and accomplished Dr. C. L. Becker.

In May, 1809, at the Synod of Hagerstown, a regular call from Pine Grove township, Schuylkill county, Pa., to Mr. Mayer was presented to Synod. A committee, consisting of Revs. Ra-hauser, Faber and Helffenstein, Sr., was appointed to examine him. The examination being satisfactory, he was formally licensed and ordained to the holy ministry.

On the 24th of June, 1809, he preached his introductory sermon in St. Paul's Church on Summon Hill.

On the 23d of April, 1809, he was married to Miss Esther Diffenbacher. He lived with the partner of his life in this holy estate about forty years. This union was blessed with six sons and three daughters. His wife and four of his children preceded him to the eternal world. To the end of his life did his soul rejoice that he had at least one son, the Rev. L. J. Mayer, to maintain the family name in the list of God's servants.

His long life and ministry are fraught with deepest interest. He served quite a number of congregations, and some of them for nearly half a century. He preached to the following congregations in Berks county: Hain's, three years; Middlebury, two; Belleman's, twenty; Hamburg, twenty-five; Blue Mountain, three, and St. Michael's, forty-three. Zion's, which was nearest his home, he served forty-eight years.

When he commenced his labors in the ministry in Schuylkill county, the country was yet a wilderness. Many a rough and uncultivated region had to be encountered. The country was infested with wild beasts and the numerous streams were without bridges. These streams had to be forded at all seasons. During winter the ice had to be broken, and frequently his life was endangered in crossing the swollen streams. Wet, cold and shivering, he often had to enter the church where there was neither stove nor fire. Sometimes he heard the screams of wild beasts prowling along his pathway and seeking his life. Those were trying times and required brave hearts in the men who were to go about these wild districts. On the 10th of July, 1870, after a brief illness, Father Mayer peacefully closed his earthly career and gently fell asleep in Jesus, aged 87 years, 1 month and 28 days. He is buried at Orwigsburg in the Reformed cemetery.

Rev. William Pauli.

Rev. William Pauli, the son of Rev. Philip Reinhold Pauli and his wife Elizabeth, nee Musch, was born March 9, 1792, in Skippack township, Montgomery county, Pa., where his father was then pastor. In the year 1793 his father removed to Reading, Pa., taking charge of the German Reformed Church in that place and of five or six other congregations in the surrounding country. Here young Pauli grew up and prosecuted his studies under the direction of his father, who was a man of learning, and had opened a select Latin and French school in the place.

In the year 1812 young Pauli was licensed to preach the Gospel, and in 1816 ordained to the office of the holy ministry, having succeeded his father, who died in 1815, in the pastorate of the Reading charge. In this field he continued to labor, in connection with the Synod of the Reformed Church, up to the year 1844, when his name was stricken from the list of ministers.

APPROVAL OF REVIVALS BY THE CLASSES AND SYNOD.

"Lebanon Classis went farther than any of the others. It not only endorsed revivals, but attacked their opposers. When Dr. Bucher, the pastor at Reading, was charged by some of his members with departing from Reformed custom by having revival, the Classis most decidedly upheld him and sharply rebuked his opponents. It went farther than this. It ordered prayer meetings to be introduced into the congregations. And when Rev. William Pauli refused, he was disciplined for contumacy. His name was finally dropped from the Classis."

Rev. Pauli was quite popular in his day. Though no longer a member of Synod, he continued to preach in some country congregations up to the time of his death. He died at his residence in Reading, May 20, 1855, aged 63 years, 2 months and 11 days.

Rev. Pauli belonged to a priestly family, not only his father and younger brother, but also his grandfather, Ernst Ludwig Pauli, having been ministers in the Reformed Church. He served Hain's Church from 1814 to 1816.

Rev. William Hendel, D. D.

Rev. Hendel was a son of Dr. Hendel. He was born October 14, 1768. His father made provision for the education of his son. After he had finished his preparatory studies he entered Columbia College in New York, where he passed through a regular Collegiate course.

After he had graduated he entered the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick, New Jersey, from which institution he also received the degree of Doctor of Divinity at a later period of his life, about the year 1828. On the 17th of October, 1792, he was examined by a committee of Synod, and on the 30th of April, 1793, he was ordained to the holy ministry by Synod at its meeting in Lancaster.

On the 11th of October, 1793, he preached his introductory sermon in the Tulpehocken Church, and soon afterwards also in the several congregations associated with it in that pastoral charge. (He preached at Hain's Reformed Church from 1815 to 1822.) Here, during a period of over twenty-nine years, he experienced joy and sorrow; passed through seasons of sunshine and storm, and saw good and evil days. During the latter portion of his ministry here, especially, many opposed him violently and persecuted him in a most unrighteous manner; and this, with few exceptions, simply because he took a deep interest in missions and in the establishment of a Theological Seminary. Instead of allowing this opposition to dampen his ardor or lessen his interest in such benevolent enterprises and check his activity in the work of the Lord, he concluded to resign his charge of the Tulpehocken and Millbach congregations, under the conviction that it was his duty to serve God rather than man.

Rev. Hendel's labors for many years extended over a large field, embracing often ten or more congregations. He was a regular attendant upon ecclesiastical assemblies of the Church, and was a very useful and influential member of Synod at its meetings. He was a warm friend of the literary and theological institutions of the Church, not only giving his labor and influence for their establishment, but contributing more than $1,000 from his own private funds towards their permanent endowment. It is said by Father Gerhart, who was present, that when, during the meeting of Synod at Bedford in 1824, the question on the establishment of a Theological Seminary was taken, the vote was a tie. Dr. Hendel, who was president, rose and with much feeling and emphasis gave the casting vote, saying: "I vote for the Seminary"; and in allusion to the prevailing opposition to the Seminary, added: "I have broad shoulders and can carry much."

Dr. Hendel was married to Miss Hahn, of Falkner Swamp. He left no descendants. His wife preceded him to eternity some years.

Dr. Hendel died at his residence in Womelsdorf, Berks county, Pa., on Saturday, July 11, 1846, after an illness of about five years. His age was 77 years, 8 months and 27 days. On Tuesday, the 14th, he was buried in the Womelsdorf cemetery by the side of his wife.

Rev. Frederick A. Herman.

Mr. Herman was a son of the Rev. Dr. F. L. Herman. He was licensed to preach the Gospel in 1815, and ordained, after three years' service, in 1818.

For some years he was settled as pastor of a number of congregations in and around New Holland, Lancaster county, Pa. He was the pastor of Hain's Reformed Church from 1822 to 1826. In 1821 or 1822 he, in connection with some others, left the regular Synod and constituted the so-called "Free Synod." His name accordingly disappeared from the minutes, and does not occur again until 1838, when he is reported as stationed at Hartleton, Union county, Pa.

He died in Turbotville, Northumberland county, Pa., and is buried in the "old" graveyard. He died October 30, 1849, in the 54th year of his age.

Rev. Joseph S. Dubbs, D. D.

Rev. Joseph S. Dubbs was a son of Daniel Dubbs and his wife Elizabeth, a daughter of Matthew Schwenk. They were pious God-fearing people. He was born October 16, 1796, in Upper Milford township, Lehigh county, Pa. He was the youngest of a family of seven. Having been baptized in early infancy, his parents were very anxious that he should be properly instructed in the doctrine and duties of our holy religion. In an unfinished autobiographical sketch he gives the following account of his early Christian training: "During the long winter evenings we were required to commit the Catechism, and to read the Psalter and the New Testament. On Sunday, when there was no service in the church, we were required to spend the forenoon in religious study, but whenever it was possible we went to church and listened to the preaching of the Gospel. After we returned from church and had taken our dinner, the Bible was brought and the chapter from which the text was taken, read and commented upon. When this was done, we were allowed to enjoy a little innocent recreation."

It was about the time of his confirmation that he also felt an earnest longing for the ministry. When his father saw him resolutely bent on attaining his object, he agreed to assist him, and rejoiced to see his son a worthy minister of the Gospel.

He prepared for the ministry under Dr. Herman, who had a number of students. In 1822 he was licensed to preach the Gospel, with special authority to administer the sacraments. He was ordained at a Synod held at Kutztown in September, 1823.

The following experience of Mr. Dubbs is given in the History of the Reformed Church in the United States:

"When Dubbs had been three years under Herman's tuition, the latter sent him one cold Sunday morning in winter to preach his first sermon in the Church at Limerick. The Church had just received from Squire Brook the gift of a stove, an article which was almost unknown in the churches of those days and which in some localities was regarded as a new and dangerous innovation. The good people of Limerick offered no objection to having the stove in their Church, though they may have regarded it as a piece of useless luxury, but in this instance it was a source of very little comfort. The stove, unfortunately, had no pipe, as it was found difficult to get one sufficiently long to meet the wants of the case. Things were suffered to remain in this condition for a considerable time. Fire was made in the stove before every service and the smoke permitted to take care of itself. Of course, the Church was so full of smoke that the people could hardly see the preacher. There he preached his first sermon amid the coughing and sneezing of the people. 'And, between nervousness and smoke,' he says, 'I almost feared I would choke to death.' The people, however, were accustomed to the affliction and assured him that he had no occasion to be discouraged with his first sermon."

The first charge served by Rev. Dubbs consisted of the Windsor and Weiss Churches, both in Berks county, of which he assumed charge in June, 1822; in 1824, Epler's Church and from December 17, 1826, to July 10, 1831, Hain's Church, which was added to his charge.

In 1831 Rev. Dubbs accepted a call from the charge in Lehigh county consisting of the Allentown, Egypt, Union and Jordan Churches.

Rev. Dubbs was twice married, the first time, in 1825, to Susan Getz, a daughter of Nicholas Getz, of Berks county; the second time, in 1837, to Mrs. Eleanor Murphy, a daughter of David Lerch and his wife Eleanor Jones. The first marriage was blessed with three children—one son and two daughters—one of whom, Rev. Alfred G. Dubbs, was the pastor of Salem's Reformed Church, Allentown. By the second marriage he had two sons, the younger dying in childhood; the other, Rev. Joseph H. Dubbs, D. D., Professor of Franklin and Marshall College for many years.

Rev. Dubbs remained in full possession of his faculties almost to the end of his life. On Sunday, April 8, he worshipped in St. Michael's Lutheran Church, and appeared to be in full possession of his usual health. On Monday, the 9th, he was, however, overcome by paralysis, and he lay in a semi-conscious condition until Saturday evening, April 14, 1877, when he gently breathed his last, aged 80 years, 5 months and 28 days. He is buried in the Union Cemetery, Allentown.

Rev. John Hantz.

Mr. John Hantz studied theology under the Rev. J. P. Shindel, of Sunbury, Pa. He was licensed and ordained in 1828, having presented a call from five congregations, located partly in Northumberland and partly in Schuylkill county. In this first charge he labored very successfully for several years. Thence he was called to Bernville, in Berks county, and to the Hain's Reformed Church, where he labored from 1831 up to the time of his death, which occurred December 28, 1832, in the thirtieth year of his age. He no doubt would have become the regular pastor of Hain's Church, had not death removed him from our midst.

Revs. Augustus L. Herman and Thos. H. Leinbach.

During 1833 and 1834 the congregation was served by Rev. Augustus L. Herman and Rev. Thomas H. Leinbach.

Rev. Augustus L. Herman was a son of Rev. F. L. Herman, D. D., one of the most eminent of our early ministers. Augustus was born in Montgomery county, Pa., June 11, 1804. After attending to the primary education he studied theology under his venerable father. In the month of September, 1822, he was ordained to the holy ministry by a committee of what was called the "Free Synod," during its sessions in Kutztown, Pa. Soon after entering the ministry Mr. Herman took charge of some congregations in the northwestern part of Berks county, including Hamburg. This field, with perhaps some slight changes, he continued to serve to the end of his life. Rev. Herman was noted as a pulpit orator.

In the year 1848 Rev. Herman was married to Miss Catharine Fricker, of Reading, Pa. They were blessed with a son and a daughter. Mr. Herman died at his residence in the city of Reading, Pa., December 31, 1872, aged 68 years, 6 months and 20 days.

Rev. Thomas Hartman Leinbach was born January 18, 1802, in Oley township, Berks county, Pennsylvania. His parents were Daniel Leinbach and his wife Mary Magdalene, nee Hartman. When Mr. Leinbach was but fifteen years old his father died. A few years later he was instructed in the doctrines and precepts of our holy religion, and confirmed by his pastor, the Rev. F. L. Herman, who soon after became also his theological preceptor. He was licensed and ordained to the gospel ministry by the "Independent Synod," convened at Kutztown, Pa., in the fall of 1822. In the month of March, 1826, he accepted a call from the Tulpehocken congregation and moved to the parsonage attached to the same that spring, retaining still Millbach congregation as a part of his new charge. At the time of his death his charge consisted of six congregations. Rev. Leinbach was famous as a "catechist" and as such he was known throughout the Reformed Church. As a preacher he was very popular and beloved. He was married to Miss Elizabeth Seibert, by whom he had thirteen children. He died in Millersburg, Pa., on Thursday morning, March 31, 1864, aged 62 years, 2 months and thirteen days, leaving a widow and ten children, with a multitude of spiritual sons and daughters, to mourn their loss.

On Tuesday, the 5th of April, following, his funeral took place. He was buried in the new cemetery attached to the old Tulpehocken Church, he being the first one laid in that consecrated ground.

The First Meeting of the Synod.

In 1793 the Coetus of the Reformed Churches of Pennsylvania was transformed into a Synod. The first meeting of what proved to be the Synod was held at Lancaster, April 27, 1793. The number of ministers at that time was 22. The ministers present were Hendel, Helffrich, Runkel, Pauli, Rahauser, Faber, Mann, Stock, Hautz and Gobrecht. Those noted as absent were Dellicker, Otterbein, Trolldenier, Dubendorf, Weber, Pomp, Gueiting, Blumer and Herman. The statistics of the Church at that time of the organization of the Synod were 78 organizations (of them 55 were vacant), and about 15,000 communicants, representing perhaps about 40,000 adherents.

There had been differences between the Pennsylvania Coetus and the Church in Holland mainly on two points: 1. The right of ordination. This the Holland Fathers had been slow to grant. 2. A difference of opinion had arisen in regard to education. Our Church felt the need of a school at which young men could be educated for the ministry. In 1785 Helffrich in a letter asked the Holland Fathers that the Pennsylvania Churches be allowed to move on this subject. The Coetus of that year, however, is careful to intimate that this request was not made with any idea of separation from Holland, which they say "would be the basest ingratitude for all the kindness they had received." Later their activity and presence at the opening of the Franklin High School at Lancaster in 1787 fanned anew the suspicions of the Holland Fathers.

THE CONFLICT OF LANGUAGES.

The first great problem that came up was that of language. The change from the German language to the English brought up serious complications. There is no question that the Church suffered greatly on account of the intense opposition to the English language. She lost many of her influential members, who connected themselves with English preaching Churches, and it split many a congregation into German and English congregations. When the English language became the language of the State, it was but natural that all legal papers would be written in that language, and that the education of the schools had to be in that language.

THE SEPARATION OF THE FREE SYNOD.

This was brought mainly on account of the question of education. There was a certain class of ministers who were anxious to legislate, and prescribe rules and regulations, relative to the education of those who were studying for the ministry, and put away with all private schools. The founding of a new Seminary met with a great deal of opposition, as the majority of the people were against anything that pointed to the centralization of any organization, be it Church or State. This was to be the land of the free, and anything that savored at sovereignty met with the greatest opposition, for the moment the rule passes away from the people into that of the classes, the ruling becomes arbitrary and the individual liberty becomes circumscribed.

The adoption of the new Constitution plainly illustrates the trend of the Church. This Constitution reveals quite a democratic presbyterial form of government, in which the congregation has large power. Their distrust of the tendency toward centralization in the old Synod made them incline toward giving large rights to the congregation.

The friends of Dr. Herman began to secede. In the eastern part of Berks and Montgomery counties congregation after congregation withdrew from Synod. The first congregations to secede, as far as we know, were those of Guldin at Vincent, Coventry and St. Peter's in Chester county; also the Centre congregation in Lancaster county and the Allegheny congregation in Berks county. The next congregation was that of Kutztown on January 30, 1822. The New Hanover congregation declared itself independent on February 9, 1822, for the same reasons, only adding that all this project of the Synod was looked upon as an aristocratic method of robbing the members of the Church of their freedom. Zion's Church, Alsace township, did so on February 23, as also did the Trappe congregation in Montgomery county on that date. Pottstown declared itself independent on February 28. The Reformed Church of Pike township, Berks county, did so on March 2. Thus one by one they left and declared themselves independent. In the "Reading Adler" of June 25, 1822, a number of the members of the Tulpehocken congregation, among them its treasurer, two trustees, three elders, three deacons and 25 members, published a note signed in May stating that they would not support a minister who supported the Seminary. The Tulpehocken congregation held a meeting on June 26 and took action against the above mentioned memorial, but Dr. Hendel, on account of the opposition to the Seminary project, which he championed, resigned the Tulpehocken and Mühlbach congregations. It was at this period of the Church that Dr. Hendel was the pastor of St. John's (Hain's) Reformed Church, and thus the Hain's Church did not enter into this controversy.

It can be said to the credit of Hain's Reformed Church that they were never carried away by every wind that blew, nor by every doctrine that was promulgated by some fanatical person. This is especially true in regard to the Church. Happy is the family and the nation where the father gathers his children around himself and instructs them in the Bible and the Catechism, and brings them up in love, in prayer and in the admonition of the Lord.

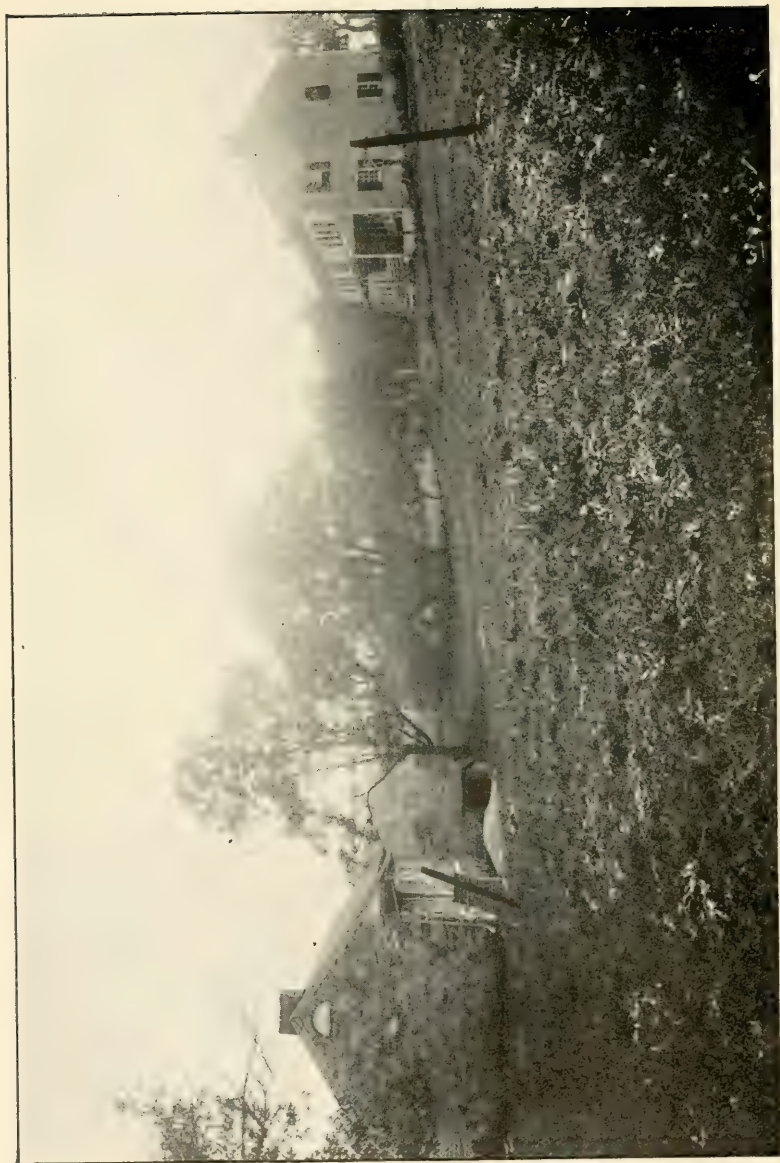

Ingratitude is one of the basest traits that can be stamped on human character, but of this sin this congregation never was guilty. The people that came into this locality came from the Netherlands and from Holland. They remembered the trials and sufferings, but above all what the Fathers in Holland did for them in the way of books and money. They called to mind how the Fathers in Holland called on them as they were about to leave their native country for America, when they knelt in prayer and heard these blessed words: "May God bless and keep you, and when in need, we will never forsake you."

The stories related about the Indians are all false as far as this congregation is concerned. Never in the history of this Church did the members stand on the outside with their rifles to guard those on the inside of the Church from molestation of the Indians. There was no occasion for anything of this kind, as there never was any strife between the Indians and the members of this congregation, but lived together in peace and wrestled with each other in friendly contest to see which was the stronger; but such stories "that an Indian shot the corn cob pipe out of the mouth of the one standing guard" is false.

REVIVALS.

When the Church at large got hysterical, the Hain's Reformed Church viewed the situation calmly, and its members were undisturbed; nor was their faith shaken, for they stood on a more solid foundation, that was erected on the Word of God, the Heidelberg Catechism and the family altar, and today their children's children can point back with pride and say here is a community where proselyting could not enter and draw them into some other denomination away from their own beloved Church.

Fourth Period—1834-1871.

Rev. Charles Augustus Pauli.

The Pauli family is somewhat noted in the Reformed Church as having furnished a long succession of men to minister at her altars. Charles Augustus Pauli was born in the city of Reading, Berks county, Pennsylvania, April 12, 1804. His parents were the Rev. Philip Reinhold Pauli and Anna Elizabeth Musch. He was early baptized, and in maturer years instructed in the Heidelberg Catechism and received by confirmation into full communion with the Reformed Church in Reading, of which his sainted father was then pastor. He prosecuted his literary course in the Academy of his native place, and afterwards, in 1822, commenced the study of theology under the Rev. J. William Dechant.

At the meeting of Synod held in Philadelphia in the autumn of 1825 he was examined, licensed, and on the evening of September 29th ordained to the holy ministry. (Syn. Min., 1825, pp. 6-9.)

Soon after this Mr. Pauli took charge of the St. John's Church in Robeson township, Berks county, Pennsylvania, which he served about one year, when he accepted a call from the Angelica congregation, and afterwards from the Schell's and Wenhil's, in Dauphin county, Pa. These, with some interruption, he served for a period of seven years. In 1834 he accepted a call from four congregations in the counties of Berks and Lebanon, namely, Womelsdorf, Hain's, Oley and Newmanstown, which he continued to serve for twenty-one years. When, in 1855, his elder brother, the Rev. William Pauli, died, he gave up Oley, Womelsdorf and Newmanstown, retaining only the Hain's, to which he added the Sinking Spring, Alsace, Yocum's, Hinner-shitz and Kissinger congregations, previously served by his brother. These he continued to serve up to the time of his death—the Hain's for thirty-seven years.

Very few ministers of the gospel by outward appearance showed the pastoral office as plainly as did Mr. Pauli, while at the same time being of easy approach by the most humble of his parishioners. In him was truly the character of the lowly, great Nazarene Teacher. He appeared unobtrusive and at the same time carried the dignity and firmness which should always be a part of the person ordained to serve his Master for the redemption of the souls of His people.

At the time that Rev. Pauli began to serve the congregation at Hain's Church a great deal of dissatisfaction prevailed. A small number were allured to Rev. Augustus L. Herman, but likely on account of his brother Frederick, who had served from 1822 to 1826. A strong sentiment, however, prevailed against him, making it impossible for him to be elected to the pastorate. Rev. Thos. H. Leinbach, one of the other of the trio who served the congregation after Rev. Dubbs, declined to continue his labors at Hain's. He met with considerable opposition; to such an extent that it was apparent he could not carry a majority vote to become the pastor of the congregation, and thereupon delivered his farewell sermon and severed his connection with the congregation. Rev. John Hautz, the other of the trio who served

Rev. Charles Augustus Pauli.

Hain's Church during the period immediately after Rev. Dubbs, would undoubtedly have been the choice of the congregation, but an all-wise Providence decreed otherwise by calling Rev. Hautz from his labors here on earth. The congregation was thereupon without the choice of a pastor at the close of the year 1833. Rev. Pauli was then a young minister, residing at Reading and serving several country congregations, and had officiated at several funerals at Hain's Church during the latter part of 1833. Thus the year 1834 opened, the congregation without a pastor and divided into factions and all but peace and harmony prevailed.

The consistory and elders of the congregation suggested young Pauli, provided he could be engaged at an unfixed salary for a year's trial, in an attempt to bring the disrupted condition of affairs to an end. The consistory was loath to fix a definite sum on account of the trouble which befell their predecessor, when four members paid the pastor his year's salary.

The proposition being tendered, Rev. Pauli, after due consideration, consented to accept, remarking if the salary should fall below a sufficient amount he would not be obliged to continue, but could stop at any time after the expiration of the year. He preached his first sermon February 2, 1834, and after the first year strife, discord and ill feeling among the members ceased to exist and the congregation entered upon an era of prosperity. He was never elected as the pastor of the congregation, but continued to serve until the end of his life. That such an early reconciliation of the members of the congregation was brought about must in a great measure be attributed to Rev. Pauli, who did not take sides with any of the factions, avoiding friction among the members as much as possible. He preached the gospel, but always refrained from participating in anything relating to the buildings or other matters pertaining to the Church. Sometimes members of the consistory would endeavor to have him express his views, but invariably they failed, his general answer being: "That property or matter is yours to attend to; I am not your master, but your servant, called to preach the gospel undefiled."

Rev. Pauli was always dressed neat and clean in a conventional clerical suit, and in early life traveled on horseback in the performance of his duties. Later he had a carriage, which he used, and in the latter part of his life he never went alone. He then had a contract with some liveryman at Reading, who furnished the team and a regular driver whenever he had occasion to use it. His team, a purely clean white horse hitched in a clean, low rockaway carriage, was a familiar figure known over all the principal roads and byways within a radius of eight to ten miles from Reading. The carriages came in vogue about 1835 to 1845. The hearse came in use about the year 1840. Before that date they used what is called the Conestoga wagon in bearing away their dead. During confirmation the girls all wore confirmation lace caps, which were made of fine lace. The boys were all dressed in black.

On the 30th of August, 1835, Mr. Pauli was married to Miss Maria L. Davis. They never had any children.

During his ministry of some forty-six years he baptized 6,775, confirmed 2,013, buried 2,044, married 2,121 couples, and preached about 4,700 times. For some years Mr. Pauli did not stand in any connection with the Synod. Some difficulty occurred between him and the Lebanon Classis. He stood aloof for several years, when his name was erased from the list of ministers. (Syn. Min. 1845, p. 25.) His personal character, so far as we know, was unexceptionable. In the discharge of his pastoral duties he manifested considerable zeal, and his labors were not without good fruits. He always remained faithful to the Reformed standards, carefully instructed his people in the Heidelberg Catechism, and confirmed them according to the custom of the Church in which he was raised. In fact he was always exact in his catechetical instructions, laying stress on the fall of mankind and the redemption by having the catechumens commit such passages of the Scriptures which had direct bearing on the subject. In the confirmation and admission into the Church he always spoke with deep feeling, and always had a certain custom that he followed. This was also the case during communion services. The opening of divine services was always the same. At funerals in giving the biography of the deceased he had a certain form, from which he never deviated. A funeral in those days was held on the third day. They were not advertised, as there were no daily papers, only weekly. Accordingly notice was given by persons going from place to place.

Mr. Pauli was a well-disposed man, of pleasant address, and possessed of some talent for preaching. He was faithful in the discharge of his duties, and, by his genial spirit and kindly bearing, had gained for himself many warm and devoted friends.

Mr. Pauli's health had been gradually failing for some time past. During the last several years of his life he was a constant sufferer. His last illness commenced about two months previous to his decease. After patiently suffering the will of God, he fell asleep gently at his residence in the City of Reading, Berks county, Pa., October 5th, 1871, aged 67 years, 5 months and 23 days. His funeral took place on the 11th of October, when a suitable discourse was delivered by the Rev. Dr. B. Bausman on these words, chosen by himself: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." 2 Tim. 4: 7.

Church Remodeled.

In the year 1844 it became evident that it was necessary to make more than ordinary repairs. The congregation decided to remodel the church. The brick floor was taken up, and George See was awarded the contract to superintend the work. The interior was entirely renovated. The bricks were ground to sand by Mr. Peter Hain at Hain's mill and used in putting a coat of plaster on the outside walls, which was then laid out in imitation of brick. The stone over the door on the south side, containing the inscription and date of building, was also attended to. The inscription on this stone was in German and is as follows:

"Alle, die hier gehen aus und ein,
Sollen Gott und dem Koenig unterthan sein,"

In English translation would read as follows:

"All who here go in and out
Should be subject to God and the King."

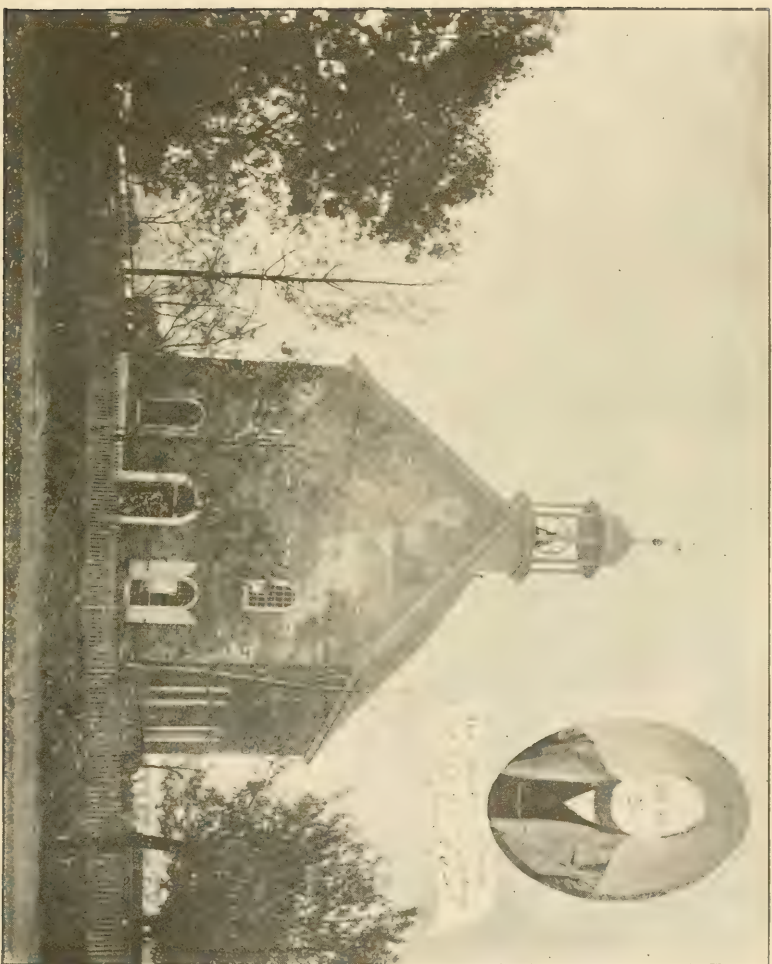

This couplet indicated their loyalty to England. But during the Revolution their sentiments had been changed, and the inscription became an eyesore. The word "king" was, at the direction of the Building Committee, erased with chisel and hammer by Jonathan See, a son of the master carpenter. It was then repainted—the letters in black and the stone white.

The work being fully completed, the church was re-dedicated on Christmas of the same year. Rev. Pauli, the pastor, was assisted by Revs. J. S. Dubbs, C. G. Herman and Samuel Seibert in the dedicatory services.

The church was then without a steeple, and in 1851 the congregation agreed to have a bell. A belfry or dome was built on the eastern gable end, on the original tower of the church, which had been struck by lightning on New Year's Day, 1817.

On September 26, 1851, a bell was hung in the new erected tower, the weight of which was 1,047 pounds. The bell was dedicated October 19, 1851.

On June 6, 1866, the congregation celebrated in a suitable and appropriate manner the centennial anniversary of the erection of the church in commemoration of their ancestors and to the glory of God. An immense concourse of people was in attendance. Rev. Dr. B. Bausman, of Reading, preached in the morning at 10 o'clock a centennial sermon from the text: Deut. 32: 7. Revs. B. D. Zweizig, P. P. A. Hoffman and T. C. Leinbach took part in the services. Pastor C. A. Pauli had prepared and read a historical sketch of the congregation, alluding to the principal families who were at the time when the church was built inhabitants and members of this congregation.

Fifth Period—1871-1883.

Rev. William F. P. Davis.

Mr. Davis was born in Paradise township, York county, Pa., a rural district in the southeastern part of this state, October 1, 1831. He was the son of John and Isabella Davis, the latter a daughter of the late Rev. Frederick William Vandersloot, and granddaughter of one of the earliest ministers of the Reformed Church in this country, of the same name—a sister, accordingly, of the Revs. Frederick William and F. Edward Vandersloot, and aunt of the late Rev. J. S. Vandersloot, son of the Rev. F. Edward, and a cousin of Mr. Davis. She was also a granddaughter, on her mother's side, of the Rev. Philip Reinhold Pauli, for many years pastor of the Reformed church in the city of Reading, Pa.—the father of the brethren Revs. William and Charles Augustus Pauli—her uncles, who, for many successive years, exercised their ministry in the city of Reading and vicinity—the former as successor to his venerable father. Mr. Davis was accordingly a direct descendant of both the Pauli and the Vandersloot families, so long and so prominently represented in the ministry of the Reformed Church of this country.

Mr. Davis was baptized, in infancy, by his maternal uncle, the Rev. F. Edward Vandersloot, and subsequently catechised and confirmed by the Rev. Daniel Ziegler, D. D., and received as a communicant member of the Strähers church, in York county, Pa. In early life already he felt himself powerfully drawn towards the work of the holy ministry, so largely represented by his ancestors, but was prevented from entering the sacred office for want of means to prosecute his studies necessary to qualify him for the work. He learned the trade of a saddler and spent a number of years in this occupation. In this way he sought to acquire the means necessary for the prosecution of his literary and theological studies. He commenced his preparatory course in the excellent High School or Academy kept for many years and successfully presided over by the late Prof. George W. Ruby, Ph. D., in York, Pa. Subsequently he entered Franklin and Marshall College, at Lancaster, Pa., where he graduated in 1861, after which he entered the Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church, then located at Mercersburg, Pa., and completed his studies in the same in 1863. During his student life he was in the habit of working with the farmers in the vicinity of Lancaster, many of whom spoke of him with respect as an industrious and skilful laborer. His excellent character and conduct made a very favorable impression on the minds of these simple-hearted and unsophisticated tillers of the soil. They saw that a student, devoted to science and literature, possessed at the same time both the requisite will and capacity to engage in useful manual labor.

In the spring of 1863 Mr. Davis was licensed by the Zion's Classis, and during the same year ordained and installed as pastor of the Abbottstown or New Oxford charge in Adams county, Pa. This first charge he served faithfully and with success for a period of about nine years. After the death of his relative, the Rev. Charles Augustus Pauli, in the fall of 1871, Mr. Davis became his successor in the Sinking Spring charge, in Berks county, Pa., then composed of five congregations, namely Sinking Spring, Hain's, Yocum's, Kissinger's and St. John's at Hamburg. Several of these congregations he subsequently resigned and had the charge reconstructed. He served his people faithfully, and, as a consequence, was highly respected and loved by them. In several of the congregations he was particularly successful in gathering in members, and thus adding to the numerical strength of the charge. His preaching was of a high order—practical and popular. He preached the Gospel in its purity, excellence and saving power; and his efforts were crowned with signal success. He officiated in both the English and German languages—using them with equal facility, accuracy and effect. Taken altogether, Mr. Davis was one of our best and most successful pastors, sincerely devoted to the spiritual welfare of his numerous parishioners, and well deserving of their grateful remembrance.

Mr. Davis was married to Miss Ellen E. Myers, of York, Pa., October 22, 1863. They had ten children, seven of whom—five sons and two daughters—survived their sainted father. Three of the children preceded him to the eternal world.

Mr. Davis was a heavy-built man, of robust constitution and general good health. He was, however, predisposed to apoplexy. As far back as the 12th of March, 1881, he had an attack of this kind, from which, however, he soon recovered sufficiently to enable him to attend to the duties of his calling. On the 21st of February, 1883, he had a second attack, from which he never fully recovered. Still, although partially disabled, he continued to attend to his pastoral duties, but not without considerable effort and inconvenience. At length he was so much debilitated that he could scarcely conduct the services of the sanctuary. A few weeks prior to his decease he told his congregations that he needed at least three months' rest, and, as advised by his physicians, entire freedom from clerical duties. By that time he hoped to be able to see whether he could further serve his congregations or not. He was advised to take a voyage to Europe, and on the day preceding his death he completed his arrangements for the proposed trip. Shortly before midnight on the 10th of June he had a third attack of the fatal disease. He lay in an unconscious state until the next morning, Monday, June 11, 1883, when, between 5 and 6 o'clock, in the bosom of his family, at Reading, Pa., Brother Davis gently fell asleep in Jesus, aged 51 years, 8 months and 10 days. His funeral took place on Thursday following, at 1 p. m. The services were held in St. Paul's Reformed church, at Reading, of which the family were members. A large number of the members of the several churches which Brother Davis served were present to testify their love and attachment to their esteemed pastor. Some forty or fifty ministers of different denominations were also present at these solemnities, many of whom took part in the same. The services at the house were conducted by the Rev. Dr. McCauley. The assembled multitude then went to St. Paul's church. Rev. Dr. J. O. Miller, of York, Pa., read the Scripture lesson and offered a prayer in English. He was succeeded by the Rev. Dr. Kremer in a German prayer. Rev. Dr. A. S. Leinbach preached a German discourse from Rev. 2: 10: "Be thou faithful unto death," etc. Rev. Dr. B. Bausman preached an English sermon from 2 Tim. 4: 5-8. The Rev. L. K. Evans conducted the services at the grave. The brethren Revs. Henry Mosser, D. B. Albright, Thos. C. Leinbach, A. J. Bachman, John H. Leinbach and L. D. Steckel acted as pall-bearers.

Beautiful and affecting was the presence of so large a number of members of the pastoral charge of Brother Davis to testify their extreme sorrow, and bear testimony to the zeal and fidelity of their beloved pastor. Beautiful and appropriate, also, was it that so large a number of his clerical brethren should be present and participate in the solemnities attending the final disposal of his mortal remains. It was, at the same time, hard to see the stricken wife and mother with her seven sorrowing children sitting beside the open coffin of a beloved husband and a kind father, of whom they had been suddenly and unexpectedly deprived. Here was room for the consoling promises of Him who is the "Father of the fatherless" and a "Judge of the widow." Well is it for us all to remember under such circumstances what is written: "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit—that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."

New Addition to the Church.

After the death of Rev. C. A. Pauli, Rev. Dr. B. Bausman, of Reading, rendered assistance by supplying the congregations which had been served by Rev. Pauli.

Rev. Wm. F. P. Davis, who was a relative of Pauli, preached in some of the churches vacant, and it soon became apparent that he was the selection of the Sinking Spring and Hain's congregations. Later an election was held in the five congregations composing the charge, namely Hain's, Sinking Spring, Yocum's, Kissinger's and St. John's at Hamburg. He was duly elected, and on March 17, 1872, he preached his introductory sermon at Hain's Church. Several of these congregations he subsequently resigned and had the charge reconstructed, so that latterly it consisted of four congregations.

Rev. Davis soon exerted considerable influence in the congregation. The church after the remodeling in 1844 needed very little attention or repairs, but the time was now at hand when it became necessary to repair. In the meantime agitation arose against building a new church. A meeting was called and a vote taken. A majority voted to repair the church only. The ordinary seating capacity of the church as then arranged was 428. By crowding the aisles 50 or more could be accommodated with seats. The agitation after the first meeting took a different aspect, changing from a new church to more room by building and addition. This soon gained ground, and the consistory refrained from making the repairs contemplated at the time the vote was taken. In the meantime architect Edward K. Mull was consulted and he drew plans to build an annex on the south side, by which the seating capacity would be more than doubled.

In the fall of 1877 a vote was taken which favored the enlargement of the church edifice. Subscription lists were circulated and a building committee selected, consisting of Reuben Ruth, Peter L. Hain, Samuel Staudt, Moses Gockley, Tysher Stitzel, Edward K. Bohn and Adam G. Lerch. Reuben Ruth declined to serve, and John H. Hain was chosen in his stead. The committee began to make arrangements at once, to begin operations the next spring. In so doing they were opposed by those who contended that it was not necessary to build an addition. The consistory which was inducted into office after January 1, 1878, felt averse to proceed with building operations on account of the tense opposition. The matter of proceeding to build according to the plans of Mr. Mull was then on Saturday afternoon, March 16, 1878, put to a final vote and carried by a majority of 40 votes.

On Tuesday morning, April 19, the first ground was broken for the foundation of the new addition. On this occasion between thirty and forty people participated. From that time on the work progressed with good will and perfect harmony.

After the delivery of the historical address the corner-stone was laid May 26, 1878, with the usual ceremonies by the pastor, Rev. W. F. P. Davis, who was assisted by Rev. Dr. Theodore Appel, Prof. Wm. Reily, Rev. A. S. Leinbach and Rev. D. E. Schoedler. The following articles were placed in the corner-stone: A Bible, hymn book of the Reformed Church, Heidelberg Catechism, German and English Reformed Church almanacs, copies of "Reading Eagle," "Daily Eagle," and "Gazette and Democrat." The following coins, all of the current year: Gold dollar, silver trade dollar, silver dollar (new issue), silver half dollar, silver quarter dollar, ten-cent piece, five-cent nickel coin, three-cent nickel piece, one-cent piece, a bottle of wine and a piece of bread emblematic of the body and blood of Christ, and a copy of Rev. Wm. F. P. Davis' historical address. Prof. Wm. Reily, of the Palatinate College, Myerstown, Pa., read the morning Scriptural lesson; Rev. Dr. Theodore Appel, of Lancaster, preached the morning sermon in German from 1 Cor. 3, "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." Rev. Reily had selected the same text. John W. Ernst had charge of the singing. Dr. Schoedler preached in the afternoon from Matth. 5: 13. He preached from the pulpit that was used in the old church. This pulpit was erected in the grove near by.

DEDICATION OF THE CHURCH.

Services were held in the grove during the building of the church. The dimensions of the new church were 50x82½ feet. The work was continued until finally completed at a cost of more than $11,000. Just before the completion an equinoctial storm set in, which delayed the final completion, and the dedication was postponed until Saturday and Sunday, November 16 and 17, 1878.

During Saturday Rev. W. F. P. Davis was assisted by Prof. Nathan C. Schaeffer, Revs. D. B. Albright, J. W. Steinmetz and T. C. Leinbach. The exercises were opened at 11 o'clock by Rev. Davis. Rev. Albright preached from Haggai 2: 10 and Prof. Schaeffer taking for his text St. Luke 18: 13.

On Sunday the following clergymen took part: Dr. E. V. Gerhart, Dr. Joseph S. Dubbs, Prof. Nathan C. Schaeffer and Rev. D. B. Albright. Dr. Gerhart preached the dedicatory sermon in the morning at 9 o'clock from the text, St. John 14: 23. Rev. Davis conducted the dedicatory services, in which he was assisted by the other clergymen present, followed by Dr. Dubbs.

The services on Sunday afternoon consisted of a sermon by Dr. Dubbs from Psalm 48: 12-14. Dr. Gerhart followed in an address, which was prompted by Dr. Dubbs' remarks.

Mr. Nathan Rohrbach, a well-known choir leader of Reading, with a choir of about a dozen, assisted by the Hain's choir, gave a number of fine selections of music. Mr. Christian Herline, of Reading, rendered a number of voluntaries on the organ.

Subscriptions and contributions were solicited, which for the two days amounted to $175.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF REV. W. J. KERSHNER.

Sixth Period—1883—.

Rev. William J. Kershner.

Rev. William J. Kershner, the pastor of Hain's Reformed Church is the son of the late Jacob Kershner and his wife Mary, nee Lavenberg. He was born February 3, 1852, in Perry township, Berks county, Pa. He attended the public school in Perry township until the age of 10, when he attended the school at Leesport. At that time Leesport had a graded school and very efficient teachers. At the age of 14 he was confirmed in Zion's Reformed Church by Rev. Sossaman Herman. In the following spring he went to the Keystone State Normal School at Kutztown, Pa. After mastering the elementary branches and having taught school three terms, he entered Ursinus College. After pursuing his studies in this institution for two years he entered Franklin and Marshall College, from which institution he graduated in 1877. In the fall of 1877 he entered the Theological Seminary, located at Lancaster, from which he graduated May 13, 1880. During the same year the title of A. M. was conferred upon him.

In the month of June, 1880, he was licensed to preach the Gospel by the Lehigh Classis. Having been licensed and ordained to the holy ministry, he took charge of Christ Church, Allentown. After a successful career in this charge for three years, he received a call from the Sinking Spring charge, September 8, 1883, signed by David H. Gring, Isaac Hain, Benneville Lerch and John S. Dundore, elders; James Gass, J. Franklin Bechtel, Franklin G. Krick and Peter White, deacons.

Rev. Kershner was married, March 27, 1883, to Emma Gordon Burkhard, of Allentown, Pa. This marriage was blessed with a son and a daughter, H. Harold and Florence E. Kershner.

He never sought his own, but always the welfare of the congregation.

Baptisms by Rev. Wm. J. Kershner.

1883-1916.

The Church Land.

North.

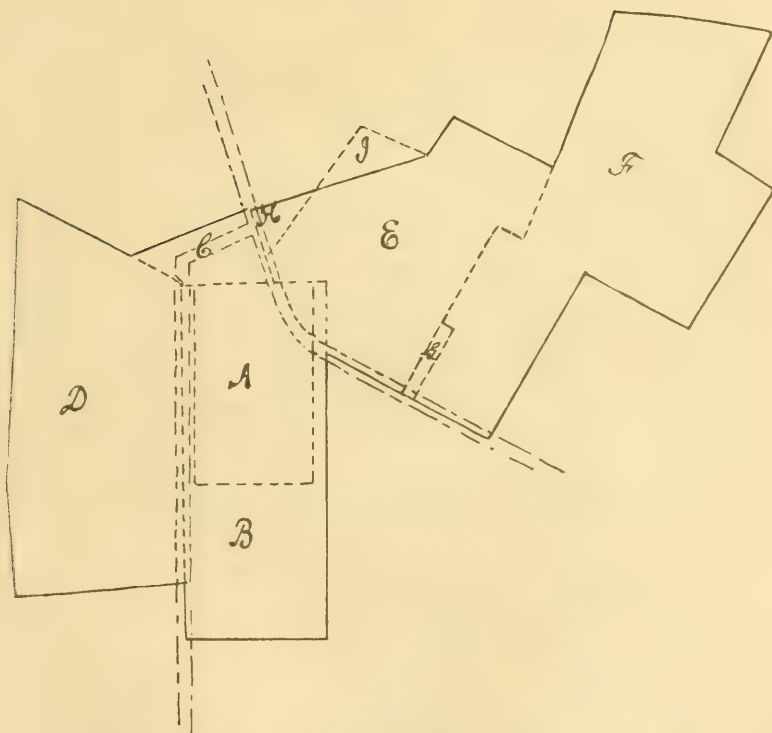

Diagram of the Land Belonging to St. John's (Hain's) Reformed Church.

The Church acquired the land which it now possesses as follows, according to the draught or sketch above:

A. Four acres. Donated by George Hain at the time of the building of the first or log Church, about the year 1735.

B. Five acres. Purchased from John Addams at a cost of 127 pounds and 10 shillings, September 10, 1813.

C. One acre. Given by Thomas Werner, William Werner and Henry Werner as their subscription to repair, renovate and modernize the Church. Deed dated March 27, 1845. Consideration money, $75.

D. Ten acres, 102 perches. Purchased from Jeremiah and Peter Peifer, who purchased the same at the public sale of the estate of Henry Werner, deceased, with the purpose to offer it to the Church at the market value fixed at the said sale. The consistory, after the offer was made, did not feel inclined to assume the responsibility of the purchase without a majority consent of the congregation, by reason of the debt incurred in rebuilding the house for the occupancy of the organist and sexton, which amounted to more than $700. At the same time the congregation had just previously liquidated the debt it had incurred by building the addition and renovating and modernizing the church; hence the reason the consistory hesitated and did not accept the offer at once. After deliberating upon the advisability of making the purchase the consistory concluded to let the congregation vote for and against the purchase of said tract of land. After the announcement that a vote on the question was to be taken, an animated agitation for and against arose amongst the members, but of such a brotherly and genial nature that very few had occasion to be in the least offended. Amongst those in favor of purchase was Edward K. Bohn, who by his fearless and convincing arguments in a short space of time had gathered about himself quite a number of the members who had been undecided as to how to vote for the best interest of the Church. A vote was taken in 1889, resulting in a majority in favor of the purchase. The consistory then entered into a contract for the purchase thereof and at the same time the Peifer brothers secured a loan for the consistory, so that it was able to settle all accounts due on building the house, besides paying for the land. On March 31, 1890, Jeremiah and Peter Peifer conveyed said tract of land to the Church at the price they paid for it, $1321.75, of which amount they donated the sum of $100 towards the purchase of said tract of land, so that the Church had to provide only $1221.75.

E. Seven acres, 30 perches. Purchased from the Hain's Cemetery Company, April 10, 1891, at the sum of $450. The Hain's Cemetery Company was incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania September 11, 1876, Charter Book No. 2, page 501, in Berks County Recorder's Office. The matter of laying out in blocks for the purpose of selling the right of sepulture to such of the members as should desire to purchase burial lots had been discussed prior to 1870, but the Church had no ground available for such purpose. After the congregation had acquired the tract of land from the Peifer brothers a part was laid out in lots for sepulture purposes, and at the expiration of ten years more than 100 interments had been made in the new or Western Cemetery. Under the title granted by the Peifer brothers a certain per cent. of the purchase money paid for burial lots is to be reserved for investment. At the expiration of ten years a considerable sum of money was thus charged against the general fund of the Church. The Mountz property on the north-east side of the old or Eastern Cemetery was offered for sale. The consistory directed to take an option. Their agent made report by holding a 30-day option at $1900. The consistory thereupon agreed to purchase.

F. 12 acres, 125 perches. Purchased from James M. Mountz and Mary E., his wife, April 1, 1899; consideration money, $1900.

G. 35 perches from Henry M. Wenrich, April 1, 1899; consideration, $150.

H. 44 3-10 perches from Adam Bender, by deed dated Aug. 2, 1905; consideration, $60 and land exchanged, I. 88 6-10 perches.

The congregation has now a total of 40 acres and 88 perches of land belonging to the Church.

Early Families and Their Homes.

The home life of a Christian people is strongly reflected in their church life. The interest and activities which make up the life of a church or congregation have many of their sources in the home. Hence a history of the beginning, growth and progress of Hain's Church would not be complete without some reference to the early families, their homes and homesteads. Where were the first homes of some of the pioneer families of the congregation? When, where and by whom were built the many substantial and enduring stone houses and barns that one may count by the dozen in a view from the high ground on which Hain's Church is located?

The original settlers—the first comers—generally built of logs. A log house and log barn were usually the buildings original to these old home sites. In clearing the forest they used the logs with which to build their primitive homes. Counting a generation as a space of about thirty years, the second, oftener the third generation of the original settler would put up new buildings, usually in this section of stone. The country surrounding Hain's Church began to be settled as early as about 1720. Count fifty to sixty years forward from this date, which brings us to about Revolutionary days. But very few of the old buildings here mentioned or illustrated were built before this time. The house on the farm owned and occupied by Michael Kintzer, a very remarkable building, was erected in 1754. (See pictures, pages 73 and 89.)

To write fully of the homes and homesteads of a people covering a period of nearly two hundred years would require a separate book. Here a chapter, or even a few pages, must suffice. One of the first impressions that these early well-built homes make upon the observer is that they were built to last—not for a lifetime, but for generations. Those who planned and those who built must have been men of substantial mind and manner—men and women who looked into the future with a hopeful and enduring faith. With what patience, toil and sacrifice these early pioneers labored! On the sites of the original log cabins of their fathers and grandfathers they erected these more pretentious, beautiful and enduring buildings, which to-day in yet many places are the homes of their descendants of the sixth and seventh generations from the original settler.

How remarkably this spirit is shown in the erection of the second church building—the older part of the present Hain's Church. It speaks eloquently and enduringly of the faith, energy and foresight of a people to erect complete in a sparsely settled country district as early as 1766 a stone church building of large dimensions, so thorough in plan and workmanship that it promises to outlast for years new and (so-called) more pretentious edifices. (See picture, page 40.)

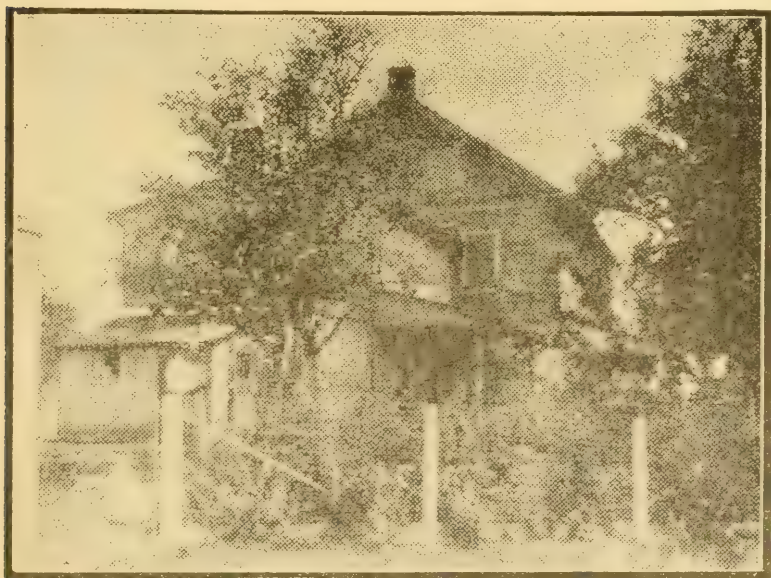

Let us hope that every member of Hain's Church congregation and every resident of the surrounding country, present and future, will always regard with love and respect the historic building and its well-kept surroundings as an expression of the church life of a neighborhood from its earliest settlement.

The limitations of this article prevent the writer from mentioning many names and incidents relating to the early families among the pioneer members of the congregation, as a look at the record of names among the earlier baptisms given elsewhere in this book will show. Then, too, some of the early names of families found in the record are no longer heard in this neighborhood.

The names Hain, Fisher, Ruth, Kershner, Lerch, Gerhard and Ermentrout with their connections represent probably most of the early or pioneer families of the congregation.

George Hain, donor of the church ground and probable ancestor of all the Hains in this vicinity, settled on what is now the Hill property, the second farm on the north side of the turnpike above Wernersville. He must have been a man of energy, foresight and thrift—typical German qualities. The large tract of land, more than 1,200 acres, which George Hain by his will bequeathed to his children, lay on both sides of the present Berks and Dauphin Turnpike, and extended from somewhere near the school house at the Asylum Road east to Furnace Lane on the south side of the pike. On the north side of the pike the tract extended east to a corner below the present Hain's Church Road.

It is a striking fact that after the lapse of 172 years most of this land is still in the possession of the descendants of the original ancestor. On all of them are found substantial stone buildings, most of them erected early in the last century or sometime before that. The present buildings on the Hill farm, which was the first home site of George Hain, date back to the early days of 1800. The house on the farm now owned by the widow of John Hain Ruth was built by John Adam Hain in 1816, and the barn is a fine specimen of mason work of an earlier date. This tract of 200 acres, along with 50 acres "lying near the church," was willed by George Hain to his son John Adam. There is a well-authenticated tradition that the Indians in their frequent trips to their fishing and hunting grounds along the Schuylkill and in Oley would camp around the Hain home, and that they were free to help themselves to garden vegetables and the apples of the orchard. Governor Joseph Hiester was a frequent visitor at this old homestead, and was himself the owner of large tracts of farm land around Reading.

Of all the interesting old homesteads whose history is a part of the story of the life of the Hain's Church, the house on the farm now occupied by Michael Kintzer deserves especial mention. This was the early home of Captain Conrad Kershner (see p. 55). It is the oldest building of which we know in the neighborhood. It was erected in 1754, and shows a style of mason work and general plan, both interior and exterior, different from all the other old houses of the vicinity. Heavy walls, with arched windows and deep window seats, a large fire-place, well-proportioned rooms, the ceilings still showing a type of panel ornamentation in plaster, of which the modern metal ceilings are but poor imitations. The house, after continuous use for 162 years, is still in good condition and bids fair to be the sheltering roof tree for several generations to come. This house was the early home of the ancestor of the present pastor of the Hain's Church congregation.

HOME BUILT FROM CHURCH LOGS.

It was the meeting place of the early organizers of the church, and one can well believe that if its walls could speak, they could tell an interesting story of the trials, sacrifices and devoted energy of the early members. This historic house was built by two German workmen, a mason and a carpenter, "redemptioners"—immigrants whose passage across the ocean was paid to the captain of the vessel for them by Conrad Kershner. These men were then indentured or bound in writing to their employer for a stipulated time to work out the passage money. In this instance the employer agreed that they should be free as soon as they had erected complete a dwelling house for him. John Kershner and his wife of the generation preceding Conrad (and who were probably his parents) were prominent members of the early church.

(See page 22 for an early reference to John Kershner.) The family has produced many professional and business men, but is remarkable for the fact that there are no lawyers among them. This early family spread itself from here north into the Bernville region, and east of the Schuylkill and into Schuylkill county. (See picture, page 319.)

The old house in the valley of Spring Creek (Brunnenkill), the present home of Ferdinand Grater, was an early Hain property. It is a log structure with weather-boarding. In the erection of this building the logs of the first Hain's Church building were used. This ancient structure, nestling in the old trees on an eastern hill-slope in the angle of two beautiful meadow streams, should be an object of interest and esteem to every man, woman and child of the congregation.

The early Ermentrout family lived on the farm now tenanted by Samuel Brossman. After several generations of ownership the family moved to Womelsdorf, where they engaged in farming, manufacture of hats and in general store business. The Lerch family, through Nicholas Lerch, acquired and for many years owned this tract and the land now included in the homestead occupied by William Delp. The historic chestnut tree described in the sketch "A Soldier of the Revolution" is standing on this tract. The next generation of the Lerches, through John Lerch, also acquired the large property known as the Dechert farm, adjoining the Brossman farm now owned by John Rick. This latter property was an early Schaeffer farm. The Lewis Lamm farm and the tract now tenanted by Paul Bare were also Schaeffer properties. On this last named farm lived Jacob Schaeffer, a cavalry soldier in the Revolution.

The first homestead of Casper Lerch and his wife Margaret, the ancestor of probably all the Lerches in this section, was the tract in the horse-shoe curve of the Tulpehocken above Blue Marsh, now the farm of Rev. J. Richards Boyle. Directly across the stream from the Lerch tract settled the Reber family, who, together with the Lerch family, came from Langenselbold, a town in Prussian Germany, and landed in Philadelphia in 1738.

John Peter Gerhard, who came to America in 1764, gave a long line of descendants to the Hain's Congregation. His homestead was the farm until lately owned by Adam Gerhart, with the large farm adjoining owned by Edwin G. Ruth (tenanted by Joseph Sheidy), and the land comprised in the tract owned by John Gerhard (tenant, Clyde Schell). The present barn on the Adam Gerhart farm was built by the ancestor Peter, though this tract was not his first homestead in America. The Arbogast family was the first owner of these hills and meadows later tilled by the Gerharts. The name is mentioned in the earlier baptismal records of the Hain's Congregation, but is now extinct in the neighborhood. The family in early times married into the Reber family.

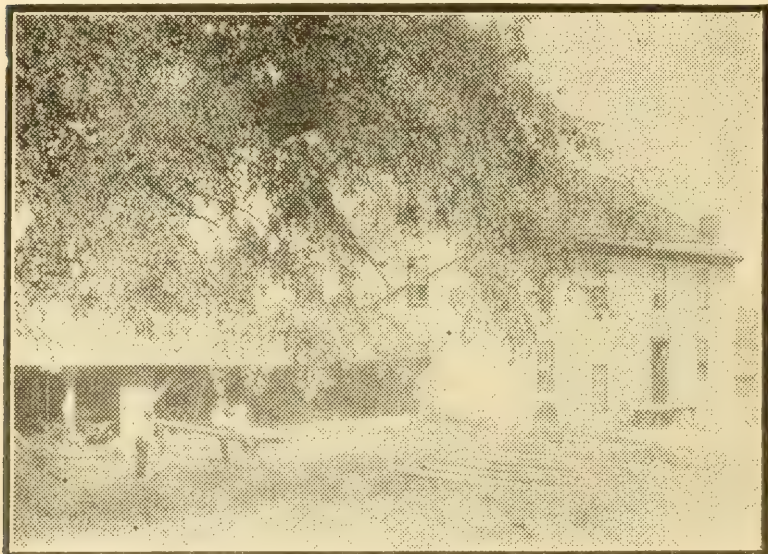

Peter Gerhard also acquired a tract of land along both sides of the Brunnenkill (Spring Creek), near Brownsville. Here a pair of twin farms on opposite sides of the stream with the typical German peak-roofed, low-eaved barns of a century ago and the Colonial type of heavy limestone-walled houses testify to-day to the toil, thrift and rugged qualities of this early family of settlers. These twin homesteads are owned by John Gerhard, of Reading (tenanted by Mr. Whitmoyer and by the estate of John Ruth, lately deceased, respectively).

Let the reader come back again into the valley at Wernersville. The general extent of the Hain lands has been traced. Below Furnace Lane, or east of it, and on the south side of the main highway, extending east as far as the Cacoosing Creek, is a tract of land settled and owned by the Fisher family. William Fisher married Gertrude Elizabeth Hain, daughter of George Hain. The family homestead was established on the present John Bowman farm along the pike, east of the borough line of Wernersville, by a William Fisher, who we conclude, from reading the will of George Hain, was the father of the William Fisher who married a daughter of George Hain, the ancestor. We call attention to two homesteads helonging now or in the past to descendants of these Fishers. John Fisher, a grandson of the ancestor William, married Rosina Hain. His homestead was the farm still owned by one of his descendants, Samuel Fisher. It lies in the valley of Spring Creek, midway between Hain's Church and Robesonia. Here at an early day, about 1820, John Fisher established a paper mill, later turned into a woollen mill. Farther up stream some of the Eckert family had established a mill and distillery, and the "big spring" farm next adjoining was the homestead of the Bechtel family. All of these represent names found in the early baptismal records of the congregation, which have been worked out with much patience and labor for publication in this book. The homestead farmed by Fred G. Hain (a short distance north of the church) was for some years a Fisher home. We call attention to it as having been the boyhood home of Rev. Peter S. Fisher, a man of much influence in the life of the Reformed Church in Pennsylvania. It was an early Hain property, and later came into the possession of William Fisher and his wife. They built on this property in 1820 the large stone barn still standing in excellent condition. On the tombstone erected on the graves of William Fisher and his wife in the old graveyard adjoining Hain's Church is this meaningful sentence: "They were the parents of Rev. P. S. Fisher." Two sons of Rev. Peter S. Fisher came to prominence and influence in their lifetime. General B. F. Fisher, who was an eminent lawyer and veteran of the Civil War. The writer of this recalls very distinctly the first political meeting and torchlight parade in the Garfield campaign, where General Fisher and ex-Governor Hartmanft spoke from the same platform. A second son, Rev. Nevin Fisher, of Philadelphia, was for a number of years rector of St. John's Catholic Church on 13th street, opposite the Wanamaker store, and is now a monsignor, an office of high rank and dignity in the Church.

The Ruth family from the days of the earliest settlements held lands in the valley directly to the east of the Fishers. The farm on the Cacoosing, near Fritztown, owned by Peter Pfeiffer, was the site of the first homestead of Peter Ruth. The Orr stock farm was a part of this tract, and was the homestead of one of the sons of Peter Ruth. Without endeavoring to trace the connection of relationship of the early owners, we will mention that the John

HENRY GAUL FARM

A. Kintzer homestead, now known as Belle Alto farm and owned by J. H. Cummings; the Henry Gaul farm and the farm of William Krick, between Wernersville and Sinking Spring, were all owned by members of the Ruth family.

The present Henry Gaul farm—a Ruth homestead—deserves especial mention. It lies in a broad sweep of the valley more than a quarter of a mile from the public highway. The main part of the house dates back to about the time of the Revolution (the date stone on the east gable end being no longer legible). Double floors, with the space between the timbers filled solid with mortar, are a feature in the construction of the house. A beautiful meadow stream—a branch of the Cacoosing—and a group of three grand buttonwood trees overtopping the farm buildings by more than fifty feet, the gently rising hills in the distant background crowned in the highest point with a group of stately old chestnut trees, all combine to make of this homestead a picture of peace, plenty and content that it would be hard to surpass anywhere.

The house on the farm of James Gaul, south of Wernersville, is a splendid specimen of a well-preserved building of the Colonial style of architecture. It was built in 1802 by George Hain and must have cost a small fortune to erect. This large, massive building, true to type in exterior and interior proportions, is characterized by a heavy and beautifully finished cornice in a fine state of preservation. A large central hallway running through the length of the building opens from the beautiful Colonial doorway (the top of which is somewhat marred by the more recent building of a wide front porch). On each side of this hall are two large rooms with high ceilings, deep window seats and wainscoting with chiseled ornamentation so finely executed that one can readily believe the story that one carpenter spent forty weeks in finishing the most elaborately worked room. This room, on the east front of the second floor, is spoken of as the "chapel room," as it was planned and used by the owner for the purpose of holding religious meetings. (See pictures, pages 105 and 121.)

Many of the early churches of Pennsylvania were located by their German founders in prominent or striking places with reference to the surrounding landscape. Some sheltered hollow, as at Berne and North Heidelberg; by some meandering stream in a meadow landscape, as at Tulpehocken or Falkner Swamp; or on some prominent hill-top overlooking the country for miles around, as at Hain's. For one hundred and fifty years the splendid old church, revived and beautified at intervals, has stood "like a city set on a hill which cannot be hid"; or like a watchman on the tower, as if keeping guard over the hearths and homes over which she looks. May she continue in her place of word and watch for years to come, and may the sons and daughters of many generations yet to come continue to find hope, cheer, inspiration and life at her altar.

A Soldier of the Revolution.

Michael Walleisen (Walliger), an apprentice of Nicholas Lerch, enlisted on the 2d day of June, 1778 or 1779, under a chestnut tree still standing on land of now William B. Brossman estate, and was enrolled in Captain Edward Scull's Company at Reading, Pa. During his term of service he was transferred into other commands. He was honorably discharged at Lancaster in the year 1782. On the 25th of July, 1784, his son Nicholas, who was named for the father's employer, born July 4, 1784, was baptized. February 25, 1787, his daughter Anna Barbara, born January 20, 1787, was baptized. In 1830 he was living in Derry township, Columbia county, Pa. (See picture, page 53.)

A Child Lost.

At the time of the first settlers in the quadrangle formed by the Indian trail, later known as the Dry Road, Spring Creek (Brunnenkill), Tulpehocken and Cacoosing, the territory was a wilderness inhabited by wild beasts. On the west bank of a small tributary of the Tulpehocken Antoni Lambrecht and Anna Maria, his wife, had their abode on lands, the right of which they had purchased from John Ermentrout, who had acquired the same from the proprietaries by a warrant and survey as was then the custom to do.

They had cleared some of the land and raised crops for their support. They had a little son, who was just beginning to talk and move about. It was their custom to put him in a large basket and take him out in the fields with them while they were at work. While topping or gathering their corn crop, they took him along as usual and placed the basket at a convenient spot where they were at work. When they came back the basket was empty, and no trace of the child could be found. They and the neighbors instituted a thorough search, but without avail. A particular method was resorted to. He had been taught to answer the question, "How do the little sheepies call?" by answering, "Ba." This the searching parties used to locate the child, but could not obtain an answer. In their distress the question, what has become of the child? admitted several solutions. First, was the boy carried away by a wild beast? Second, had some Indians passed through there and taken him along? Several years later the skull and bones of a child were found in the woods of that region, and the conclusion and saying then was that wolves had devoured Lambrecht's little boy. The incident occurred in the little valley directly north of the Dry Road, about a mile west of State Hill, on or near land owned by Peter Horn.

School Teachers and Organists.

By a close inspection of all available records it appears that a parochial school existed at Hain's Church in 1768, when a certain Mr. Huber was the schoolmaster or teacher. In 1770 Ernst Wilhelm Christ served as chorister and teacher.

In 1774 Thomas Weller appears to have been the incumbent, and has likely served for some time.

Peter Crill served during the year 1790 and John Stoudt in 1791, after which Mr. Hemsing became the parochial teacher and chorister. In 1795 an organ was purchased and Mr. Hemsing continued as schoolmaster and organist until 1803.

Of the above named persons very little is known at this time, as from three to five generations have passed the stage of life since they completed their labors and were gathered to rest.

Peter Bertram was the parochial teacher and organist from 1803 to 1810. He was followed by Mr Weinail, who served until 1811. From 1811 to 1812 Charles Frederick Egelman was the schoolmaster and organist. He was likely the most educated incumbent the congregation ever had in the capacity as teacher and organist, being an astronomer of more than ordinary note. In later years he made the astronomical calculations for most of the publishers of almanacs in eastern Pennsylvania, and contributed charts and other works on the planetary system, some of which are found in books published nearly a century ago. He was regarded and considered an excellent teacher, especially of those who had advanced to some degree in mathematics. He was born at Osnabrück, March 12, 1782, as Frederick, Duke of York, was Bishop of Osnabrück. The Duke of York was the second son of George III, King of England. Osnabrück was in the Duchy of Lüneburg, governed by the King of England. Later it became the kingdom of Hanover. He came to America the latter part of October, 1802. He was an honorary member of the New England Mathematical Society in recognition of calculations he made for the eastern College. He died in November, 1860.

From 1812 to 1813 Mr. Knechley served as schoolmaster and organist. He appeared to have been a man of uncontrollable temper, and did not make a favorable impression in the congregation.

In 1813 Peter Bertram was re-elected to his former position and continued to serve the congregation until 1838. He was well educated and was an organist of considerable talent. He knew how to bring about the intricacies of the tones of a pipe organ, mechanically. He was also a faithful teacher, who was able to sympathize with the beginners, and was assisted by his faithful wife, who appeared to have been a mother to all the little boys and girls who began their school life at Hain's Parochial School. He was of an excitable temperament, which appeared to increase as he advanced in years. An incident which happened at a funeral service illustrates his knowledge as organist and what effect discordant tones of the organ had on him. It was his custom to give definite instructions to the person who was drawing the bellows ropes, so as to produce a tremolo while he was playing. In this particular case he had given the usual instruction to an old friend of his, Christian Spengler, who by all appearances was a very jovial old man. Mr Spengler soon discovered that doing somewhat contrary to instructions he could produce music quite different than Mr. Bertram desired. Every such undesirable tone would jerk Mr. Bertram on his seat, either to the right or left. From Hain's Church he moved to Christ Church, near Bernville. He died on December 12, 1842, and is buried at Bernville.

John Philips served from 1838 to 1840. Prior to his call to Hain's Church he served Belleman's, to which place he returned again in 1840. It is said that he kept the graveyard as a pasture for his sheep and sowed the Shemokin grass on the old graveyard.

In 1840 Jonathan Bertram, a son of Peter, assumed the duties of organist and schoolmaster. He was fairly well educated in the German language, but very limited in the English. It was often remarked by some of the older people that it was a mystery how he ever was able to acquire the limited knowledge of the English, in direct opposition to the will of his father, who was all the time opposing the advent of the English to the utmost. Mr. Bertram was able to instruct in the three R's, and was always regarded as an excellent penman. He was not only able to write a plain, legible hand, either German or English, but he could also cut a quill with which a hair line as well as drawing heavy flourishes could be equally as well made as with the best gold pen. He continued in the capacity as organist and parochial teacher until the adoption of the public school system. He was then licensed to teach by the County Superintendent and employed by the School Board, who paid an annual rental of $12 for the use of the parochial school room. In the spring of each year after the close of the public school he opened a summer subscription session for a period of from six to eight weeks; also sometimes a fall session before the opening of the public school session. He thus continued until the close of 1868. He became paralytically affected in his right arm and hand and could no longer perform his duties as organist. The school, even after the advent of the common schools, was continued as a German or mixed school. During the entire period it was kept open in the parochial school room. The catechetical classes at that time, with few exceptions, used the German catechism, and those who attended lectures invariably went to Bertram's school, using the German Psalter or New Testament as the reading text book. His system of promotion, from first to second, to third, to fourth Reader required no examination. He died January 1, 1870, and is buried in the old graveyard.

In 1869 John W. Ernst assumed the duties as organist and school teacher. He was possessed of musical talents naturally, and, being a young man, soon gathered about him by having at the time then known singing schools at stated places and times, where the old hymns were rehearsed and newer songs practised. He was by trade a blacksmith, but relinquished the same and attended a short session at the Keystone Normal School. He was licensed to teach in the public schools. The German had now been almost eliminated in catechetical instructions, the school was depleted of the customary number of German pupils and new school houses erected in the immediate vicinity of the church, the Board of Directors decided to close the church school, several years after Mr. Ernst had assumed the duties as organist and schoolmaster. He continued in the capacity as organist and attended to the tillage of the arable land belonging to the church, which he brought to a high state of fertility. During the time the annex to the church was built he rendered services in a number of ways, being of a mechanical as well as musical turn of mind. He was able to assist where assistance was most needed. He had the misfortune to lose his first and second wives by death during his incumbency. He removed in April, 1879, to a farm he purchased near Black Horse, Lancaster county. Later he resided in Reamstown. He died May 4, 1916, aged 80 years and 5 days, and is buried on his lot in the Eastern Cemetery, which he assisted to open.

John S. Yocom became the organist at the time that Mr. Ernst left. The conditions were considerably changed since the school connected with the place was closed. Mr. Yocom was a teacher in the public schools and continued as such a number of years after he assumed the duties as organist at Hain's Church. He exerted himself to have a good choir to assist him at services. By reason of the change which was brought by changed conditions the detail of the duties developing upon the organist were quite different from what they were at the beginning of the century. The graveyard had increased at least four fold. Instead of a church 40x50 a structure of more than double the former capacity had been erected. Regular church services were more frequently held. The increase of membership resulted in more funerals to be attended to, which all tended to increase the duties devolving on the organist residing on the property, and with additional labor and duties which he voluntarily assumed the responsibility was increased, so that it became a burden and almost impossible for one person to give proper attention to all the details. This tended to bring about dissatisfaction, and the consistory was urged to obtain better services in detail. Mr. Yocom thereupon decided to retire. He afterwards served St. Michael's church, near Hamburg, to the entire satisfaction of the congregation. He died September 6, 1901, aged 49 years, 8 months and 13 days, and is buried in the Sinking Spring Cemetery.

William Z. Baker was selected by the consistory as Mr. Yocom's successor. He assumed the duties as organist and sexton, April 1, 1891. He had some musical talents, but lacked practice to operate a pipe organ, and his daughter performed that part of the service most of the time. He failed to make a general favorable impression, and was unable to raise the choir to the standard he desired. He appeared to be a man of an irritable temperament, naturally became disgusted with the position he had assumed, resigned and moved away. The consistory thereupon prevailed upon Daniel Dunkelberger, Sr., to occupy the house and act as sexton and general caretaker until the following spring. In the meantime applications were considered, and, before New Year, Aaron R. Rollman was selected as the successor to Mr. Baker. He was possessed of natural musical talents, and had considerable practice.

Aaron R. Rollman was born July 25, 1855, in Cumru township, Berks county, Pa., son of John and Elizabeth Rollman, nee Richwein. Baptized December 22, 1872, by the Rev. Benj. D. Zweizig, and confirmed in the St. John's Lutheran church, Sinking Spring, Pa., December 22, 1872. His common and early school education was received at the Faust School House, taught at that time by Mr. Edward Smeltzer. He later entered the Business College in Reading, better known as the Brunner Commercial College. Most of his musical education was received through hard and consistent home study and practice. He took a few lessons from Prof. Unger, of Reading. He started his career as an organist at the age of 22 years by playing in the Blue Marsh Sunday School, at which place his father taught the Sabbath School. At the age of 24 he married Maggie S. Strunk, of Woottown, on November 18, 1879. He later moved to Philadelphia and there conducted green houses at Rolandville, then a suburb of Philadelphia. After several years he returned to Spring township and took charge of his father's farm for nine years. He was summoned through a friend, Mr. Oliver Schaffer, to a meeting of the consistory of Hain's Reformed Church in reference to accepting the position as organist, chorister and rector of that congregation. He was an earnest church worker and performed his duties willingly for eleven years. He also took an active part in the Sunday School work, being superintendent for several years. Through the support of church members he was elected tax collector of Lower Heidelberg township, serving this office for seven consecutive terms. Much against his will he resigned his position with the church, moving to the city, thinking that the change of city life would improve the health of his only daughter, Elda L., whose health was fast failing. The change of residence, however, was not beneficial. On August 25, 1904, she was called to her rest. Resolutions were adopted by the Sunday School of Hain's Church in her memory. She was a most earnest worker, assisting her father in Sunday School and choral work. Three years after the death of his daughter he met with an accident while in the employ of a Reading hardware firm. The accident was severe, and after lingering three days he was called to his rest on March 21, 1907. He was considered a true and faithful man by all his employers. He was survived by his wife, Maggie S. Rollman, nee Strunk, who was a true and faithful helper in her husband's endeavors. Three sons, Charles Earl, Edward Clarence and John William, survived; also one grandson. In the caretaking of the old graveyard, cemeteries and buildings Mr. Rollman was assisted by his father-in-law, William Strunk.

Harvey R. Artz became Mr. Rollman's successor as organist, but not the sexton. A division of the duties was then made, and Levi R. Beecher moved on the church property, assuming the duties as sexton and general caretaker of grounds, cemeteries and buildings. Mr. Artz being a young man with good musical talents, applied himself energetically to advance. Being under special instruction to operate pipe organs, soon gave proof of his efficiency. He soon had gathered about him some of the best vocal voices of the younger element of the congregation. He was just about to earn of the fruits of his labor, when he was removed by an all-wise Providence to the life beyond the grave. He died August 21, 1908, aged 29 years, 2 months and 23 days, and is buried in the Western Cemetery. He was a son of Jacob B. and Caroline R., a born Ruth, and was born at Mohn's Hill, May 28, 1879. He studied music under Prof. O. H. Unger, and harmony and voice culture under Prof. Solomon Unger and Prof. Philip Lee. On January 18, 1902, he was married to Miss Annie Alva Fox, which union was blessed with one son, Owen Artz. He was highly esteemed and loved by the congregation, and in honor of his memory the members erected a fine tombstone. A memorial tablet was placed on the organ in his honor, he being the first and only organist to die while in the services of the church.

Mrs. Calvin Ruth, daughter of John H. Haag and Emma E., nee Becker, was born at Shoemakersville, Pennsylvania, June 7, 1884. Her musical education began at the early age of nine years, taking lessons on the piano under the instruction of Miss Ida Wagner, of Mahanoy City, Pa. At an early age she showed marked ability both in instrumental and vocal music. At the age of fifteen years she began her musical education under the instruction of Prof. O. H. Unger, of Reading. Her favorite instrument was the piano, on which she became one of Reading's foremost players. She also showed marked ability on the organ, viola and harp, and in singing. She took a thorough course in harmony. Possessing a fine alto voice and being an expert on the piano, she appeared on many public occasions. In August, 1908, she became the organist of St. John's (Hain's) Reformed Church, in which capacity she served until 1911, when she resigned to be married to Mr. Calvin Ruth, of Wyomissing, where she now resides. The memory of her talents as an organist still lingers in the minds of the members of the congregation.

Prof. Charles George Specht, of Sinking Spring, the present organist and choirmaster of the congregation since 1911, was born in Spring township, near Montello, Berks county, June 27, 1860, the son of two German immigrants, John George Specht and his wife Hannah R., nee Sifferman. From musical German ancestry and parentage, in addition to developing his inborn musical talents, Charles G., after matriculating in the public schools and learning his trades of Potter and cigarmaking, has become a prominent musical figure of this community.

At the early age of ten years Prof. Specht manifested considerable talent for both vocal and instrumental music, so that at fifteen years of age as a pupil of Prof. Charles Rothenberger he was able to master several brass and reed instruments and, specializing on clarinet, he became a member of various bands. Continuing his musical study in Reading, Pa., under Prof. E. A. Berg, in theoretical music, vocal and organ, he later completed a special course in theory of music and composition under the late Prof. Theodore Kolb. Meanwhile his musical attainments spread throughout the state and he was called to assist the Altoona City Band and the Mountain City Band.

Returning home in 1882, he started to follow the musical profession exclusively and to teach music in all its branches. Two years later he married Esther Elizabeth Reber, daughter of Levi and Sophia (nee Heckman) Reber, and later, in 1886, became organist of St. John's Reformed Church, Sinking Spring, in which capacity he is still serving. In the years following he became an expert clarinet and saxophone soloist and since then has taught more than eighty musical organizations, such as bands, orchestras and choral societies. Hundreds of pupils have had Prof. Specht's tutelage on piano, organ and string, reed and brass instruments. His endeavors along this line have been very successful and he numbers many prominent and successful musicians. Prof. Specht was clarinetist for sixteen years in the Ringgold Band, upon which he was elected to its directorship in the spring of 1894.

Prof. Specht is also well known as a composer and arranger of piano, band and orchestra music, having several successes to his credit. His versatility, combined with energetic methods and thoroughness, have made his reputation and character a worthy asset to the Reformed Church, which he joined at an early age.

In his family, besides his wife, are: Minnie E., married to Herbert Hornberger; George R., a vocalist of considerable repute in this locality, and Paul L., a violinist, composer and versatile musical performer in concert work touring throughout this country. Frederick E., another son talented with music, died when nineteen years old.

It will not be amiss or out of place to mention a few other persons in connection with the organists. Prior to the time that the congregation had erected the belfry and had a bell on the church, it appeared the organist was without a regular attendant to draw the ropes of the bellows of the organ. In 1851, when the belfry was erected and the bell placed therein, the congregation adopted a code or rules as to how and when the bell was to be rung, as follows: First, the bell shall be rung daily five minutes at eleven o'clock before noon. Second, when church services were to be held on Sunday forenoon, the bell was to be rung five minutes at sunset on Saturday evening. If services were in the afternoon, the bell was rung five minutes on Sunday morning at sunrise; and always one hour before the beginning of services the bell was to be rung five minutes. At the beginning of the services the bell was to be rung again a short period only. Upon the death of a member of the congregation or person to be buried here the bell shall be rung five minutes, and after a pause the age of the deceased was tolled on the bell, one strike of the tolling hammer for each year. If the funeral was in the forenoon, the bell was rung five minutes at sunset of the day before the funeral. If the funeral was in the afternoon, the bell was to be rung five minutes at sunrise of the same day. And always at the time fixed for the funeral to leave the house, the bell was to be rung five minutes. After the funeral cortege was nearing the church, the bell was tolled by single strokes of the tolling hammer, intermission pauses to be observed until the corpse was deposited in the grave.

It then became necessary that a person who was near to the church and not employed or engaged in work that would interfere with fixed times when his service was required, had to be sought. Michael Schaeffer, by trade a tailor and incapacitated to perform heavy labor, assumed the duty as sexton and also as regular attendant at the organ to draw the bellow ropes. He collected his salary from the members of the congregation and received perquisites for services at funerals. He continued in said service until near the end of his life. He died August 22, 1866, aged 69 years, 2 months and 13 days.

After Mr. Schaeffer became enfeebled by reason of age and infirmities, he had Stephen L. Fiant to assist him, and after the death of Mr. Schaeffer, Mr. Fiant assumed the duties of sexton and rang the bell regularly until 1869.

John Schaeffer, a brother of Michael, assumed the duties of drawing the organ bellow ropes and continued until he could no longer perform his duty.

After John W. Ernst became the organist, he rang the bell and selected Charles L. Fiant as an assistant, to act in his absence. Later Mr. Fiant also assumed the duty of drawing the bellow ropes until April, 1878. In later years he remarked that he never knew that the position was such an important one until he missed to draw the rope, when the organ failed to respond to the organist's manipulations.

Amongst others was also Charles L. Zeller, who attended to the bellow ropes, later operated by a lever. His son, John R. Zeller, rang the bell quite frequently, acting as assistant.

At the time that John S. Yocom became the organist, the old organ had been remodeled. The bellows no longer reposed in the loft of the church, but instead of the ropes a lever at the side of the organ was used to work the bellows. Mr. Yocom always had arranged to have some one, at times a member of his choir, to operate the bellow lever.

After Aaron R. Rollman became the organist, his father-in-law, William Strunk, or some other member of his family, attended to the bellow lever. After Mr. Rollman had retired as the organist, Levi R. Beecher operated the bellows until the installation of an electric motor.

Organ Dedication, May 23, 1904.

The dedication of the new organ of Hain's Reformed Church on Sunday, May 23, 1904, Rev. W. J. Kershner, pastor, was one of the largest events of the kind held in Berks county for some years. All day services were held and great interest was manifested.

Members of the congregation and friends from near and far gathered at the remodeled church and participated in the exercises. They began to arrive as early as 8 a. m. and came in vehicles of every description. Some walked, many came on their wheels, and the trolley cars on the Womelsdorf branch handled an immense throng of visitors without a single mishap. Beginning at 8 o'clock cars were run every twenty minutes. Ample provision was made for the teams and lunch was served on the lawn adjoining the church.

The estimated attendance for the entire day, or the three services, is given at between 5,000 and 6,000. Those in charge of the teams declared that fully 1,000 teams were there during the entire day. Such an outpouring of people was never heretofore witnessed at Hain's Church. Coaches were kept busy taking people from the trolley car to the edifice, a distance of half a mile. Hundreds walked, and the road leading to the place was constantly full of teams and pedestrians. The splendid weather had much to do with the attendance, and the pastor and the members of the congregation were delighted with the beautiful day. Outside of the church on the lawn plenty of benches were erected, and many rested under the cool shade and enjoyed the superb scenery.

Long before the morning services many people passed into the church and made a thorough inspection. They were more than pleased with the improvements, and were loud in their praises of the work of the members of the congregation and the pastor.—Reading Eagle.

IMPROVEMENTS AND THE NEW ORGAN.

The interior of the edifice has been beautifully remodeled and frescoed, making it one of the prettiest houses of worship in the county. On the ceiling are painted the pictures of the four evangelists, one in each corner. In the centre of the ceiling is painted a lamb. The gallery railing has been cut off and a brass railing extending the entire length of the church takes its place. The organ stands behind the pulpit. There are places on each side of the instrument for the members of the choir. The front of the pulpit platform is finished in brass grill work. The interior of the church is painted so as to correspond with the frescoing. The latter was done by Berthold Imhoff, of Reading, who is an artist in this line. The doors, chancel and the organ are of oak. The pews have been renovated and made to correspond with the other fixtures.

THE FIRST ORGAN.

The first organ was placed in the church in 1789. It was built by Tonnaberger and was secured from the Moravian Seminary at Lancaster for $800. It was considered a fine instrument in those days. This organ was remodeled in 1878 by Thomas Diefenbach, of Millersburg, Pa., and was re-dedicated on August 10 of the same year. It was in use up to a short time ago, a period of 115 years.

THE NEW ORGAN.

In the building of the new organ, the old was incorporated, as the pipes of the old organ were of a very fine quality. The organ was built by E. E. Palm, of Mt. Penn, Pa. It is a fine piece of workmanship. It is 17 feet 3 inches wide, 24 feet high and 5½ feet deep, and of solid quartered oak. The organist sits with his back towards the instrument and faces the congregation.

There are three parts to the instrument—the great organ, swell organ and pedal organ. The former consists of the open diapason, gamba, dulciana, trumpet and melodium, each 8 feet in length and each containing 61 pipes; the flute traverse and principal, each 4 feet in length and each having 61 pipes; and the 15th, being 2 feet long, with the same number of pipes. The swell organ is made up of the violin, diapason, stopped diapason, salicional, oboe and bassoon, each 8 feet in length and each having 61 pipes; the bourdon, 16 feet long, with 61 pipes; flute, harmonia and fugara, each 4 feet in length, with 61 pipes each; the piccolo of flantina, 2 feet long, and 61 pipes and the tremulant. The pedal organ consists of a pedal double open diapason, 16 feet in length, with 27 pipes, and a pedal bourdon 16 feet in length, with the same number of pipes. It is complete in every detail. It has a clear, distinct and splendid tone, and is up to date in every particular. It has two manuals, 18 speaking stops, 1,030 speaking pipes, 3 couplers, 4 combination buttons, balance swell and crescendo and decrescendo, and cost $2,300. (See p. 475)

PROVISION MADE FOR THE PEOPLE.

Ample provision was made for the people. A large stand was erected on the lot in the rear of the church building. The lumber was furnished by Adam P. Spatz free of charge. Ham and cheese sandwiches, pretzels, ice cream, cakes, hot coffee, soft drinks, fruits, etc., were disposed of for a nominal sum. The women of the congregation had baked over 60 cakes for the event and furnished all the flowers for the church decorations from their own gardens. The following was disposed of: 2,500 sandwiches, 300 quarts of ice cream, 60 cakes, 10 large hams, 1,500 pretzels, 90 pounds of cheese, 10 dozen of lemons, 75 pounds of sugar, 5 gallons of milk and cream, 25 pounds of coffee, and other articles in proportion. Nearly all were donated.

THE COMMITTEE.

The committee was composed of the following: J. Ulysses Hain, chairman; Albert Gerhard, secretary and treasurer; assistants, Aaron L. Staudt, Darius Bohn, Grace Hain, Lucy Gerhard, Bessie Tice, Gertie Bickel, Mrs. Amelia Moyer, Mrs. Anna Becker, Mrs. John Schaeffer, Mrs. Eugene Hetrich, Mrs. Henry Reber, John Troop and Dalla Gerhard.

The teams were taken care of by a committee consisting of George Barnett, Charles Gerhard and Howard Bucks. Ten bushels of oats were required to feed the horses.

The improvements to the church were in charge of the following: Painting, Darius H. Bohn; slate roofing, Isaac Boltz; tin work, Harry Werner; carpentering, Adam P. Spatz; masonry, Albert Dunkelberger; plastering, Samuel Wolfskill; frescoing, Berthold Imhoff.

The work was done under the supervision of the consistory: Rev. W. J. Kershner, Jacob Ruth, William C. Feather, Darius H. Bohn, Adam G. Lerch, Eugene Hetrich, Howard H. Hain, Morris Reber and George W. Lamm. The terms of Darius H. Bohn, Adam G. Lerch, Morris Reber and George W. Lamm having expired, the newly elected officers to the consistory were Adam P. Spatz, George Kintzer, Abraham Shonauer and Isaac Greth.

DEDICATORY SERVICES.

Dr. Richard C. Schiedt preached the dedicatory sermon from the words, 2 Chronicles 5: 12-14. His theme was "The History and Function of the Organ in the Christian Church." In his remarks he spoke of the unity of the soul of the church members, comparing that to a drop of water. He said that alone a drop of water will evaporate, but many together make the mighty ocean and carry the burdens of the sea. So the harmony of the soul carries the burdens of life's struggles. The organ is like the soul to the body. In it are many different stops, but they all form one life. So the soul has in the emotions of the highest life, forming one harmonious whole. Rev. W. J. Kershner pronounced the benediction.

THE CHOIR.

Harvey Artz is the organist. The members of the choir are: Florence Ludwig, Lizzie Gerhart, Lizzie Hain and Alice Lamm, sopranos; Mary Hain, Nora Lamm and Ella Lamm, altos; Chas. Hain, tenor; Charles Gerhart and Edwin Ruth, bass.

The afternoon was largely devoted to music, and the dedicatory services were by the pastor of the church, Rev. W. J. Kershner. The Shillington choir rendered the music; Prof. Martin L. Fritch, organist.

The Wernersville Sanatarium.

Naturally coincident with the settling and cultivating of the rich valley (rich in giant forest trees, rich in limestone soil, rich in iron ore), settlers also looked to the mountains on the south bounding the valley, to ascertain what value and desirable quality was in them, and how best they could be utilized and made productive, and found them equally valuable with the valley below them. In consequence, prior to 1760, the Roxboro furnace, soon after named the Berkshire, was built. For a period of forty years this furnace stood almost in the shadow of the old historic church. At this furnace shot and shell were made for the Revolutionary War, as well as stoves for domestic use. For fuel for this furnace the mountains so richly covered by forest trees were denuded of their trees and the wood burned to charcoal for fuel. The iron ore for its use was secured from mines close by. Relics of this old furnace have to a very late date been found here in the form of shells. About 1792 this furnace was abandoned and another furnace (the Reading) was built about three miles west of the old site and one mile south of Robesonia. This furnace (now Robesonia furnace, very much enlarged) is today actively engaged in the manufacture of iron. This furnace long ago, owing to the scarcity of wood, was converted into an anthracite furnace, and still later coke was used as fuel. The mountains becoming denuded of timber soon opened the way for many, at first small and humble, homes of cleared land, followed by larger clearings, until today they are studded with homes and farms, both small and large, from Reading to Harrisburg, always and all supplied with never failing, living spring water of the purest and best quality. The beautiful valley known as the Lebanon Valley, and the mountains skirting it its entire length, were not to be left long to the agriculturist and iron manufacturer alone, for soon the traveler, the tourist and those in search for opportunity and investments came along and realized how exceedingly beautiful and healthful these mountains were and what incomparable views of the country for many miles around they commanded

The climatic conditions of these mountains were also early recognized, and thus as early as 1847 attracted a German physician, Dr. Charles Frederic Argus Leisering, to these parts, who at once established a water cure, which, though at first very modest and primitive, soon found advocates, adherents and supporters for his then new system for treatment of disease. Many came from far and near to avail themselves of its virtues. So successful was this pioneer that rapidly his establishment commenced to increase and grow in popularity until today the successor, "The Grand View," still on the identical original spot, stands as a monument on these mountains. So attractive and popular did these mountains become that soon others were drawn to them, so that today we have not one, but a number of Sanitariums, all well equipped for modern methods of treatment and kept open summer and winter. In addition to this, hotels, summer resorts and boarding houses, equal to those to be found anywhere, are dotted thick over these mountains. Private homes of the finest type, as well as many of smaller proportions, are also in ample evidence, and in fact so much so that looking at the mountains from the old church it appears more like a good sized town than here and there a stray house.

Of the scenery a gentleman of wide experience as a traveler wrote: "I have traveled far and in many lands, but the view from the Observatory on Cushing Peak still lives in my memory as one of the most wonderful combinations of the beautiful and the grand, of the perfect pastoral culture and the unfettered wilderness of nature, of far-reaching valley landscape and vast stretch of mountain ranges, that my eyes have looked upon." The scenery is simply indescribable, being extensive and majestic, and must be seen to be realized and appreciated. Fine climatic conditions, not in name only, but in reality, are much in evidence here on these mountains, and so healthful is the climate that it has been compared to that of Colorado. One very eminent writer even declared it to be the finest in the world. These mountains also abound in many of the very earliest geological formations. Taking a retrospective view of the valley and the mountains, did not our forebears choose wisely for the location of their place of worship?

The Elders and Deacons.

The early records are indefinite, and it is difficult to obtain the names of the elders with any certainty, hence the omission of elders until the time when the records were more complete.

By the old records it appears that only one deacon was elected annually, who served two or more years. The elders are rarely mentioned, and mostly as a class, not as incumbent members of the consistory.

The names were obtained from the annual settlements of their accounts, where seldom more than one deacon is named. In most all cases where two were mentioned, it followed that it was a retiring incumbent and a successor in office.

The first records that give any light as to who served as deacons fail to particularly mention the names of elders.

THE CONSISTORY.

Rev. Wm. J. Kershner.

The history of Hain's Church from its earliest founding would hardly have been possible but for the patient and tireless work of two men, both of whom have been prominent in the life of the congregation for many years—the pastor, Rev. Wm. J. Kershner, and Adam G. Lerch, Esq., of Wernersville. And although the present volume is a record of events, with some reference to the history of families only, not of individuals, yet it seems eminently fitting to those most personally disinterested in the preparation of some of the historical matter in this book that a brief sketch of the lives of these two men should find a place in these pages.

The labors of Wm. J. Kershner as pastor of Hain's Church congregation have up to this time (1916) extended over a full generation—a space of thirty-three years. He was elected on September 1, 1883, and has served continuously since that time. It would be contrary to the tastes and wishes of the pastor to write in terms of praise of his work—though these are justly merited—hence we shall give facts relating to the remarkable growth of the congregation during the past thirty years.

At the first communion service held by Pastor Kershner there were present 287 who partook. The present number of communicants is 1,200. In point of numbers Hain's ranks among the largest of the country congregations in the Reformed Church. From 1883 to 1889 the bulk of a debt of approximately $4,000 was paid off. Since that date tracts of land adjoining the church were purchased from time to time until now the congregation owns about forty acres, included in church grounds, the old graveyard, cemeteries, sexton's farm and other property adjoining. Hain's was one of the first country congregations to install a steam heating plant. Electric lighting of the church building, grounds and the approaches, together with ample shedding for all vehicles, are much appreciated conveniences. It is a generally conceded fact that the purchase of additional ground for church purposes was a wise move and "helped to put the congregation on its feet."

During the three decades of the present pastorate the use of English has gradually displaced the German in the church services. Though in a Pennsylvania German-speaking community, there are but very few among the membership now who can read with understanding the German hymn books in common use in the congregation thirty years ago, and hardly a majority of the congregation can appreciate a sermon in German. We cite this as a striking commentary on the strength of inherited tendencies—the use of the mother tongue (die Mutter Sprache) in daily life is one of the last acquirements to be displaced by other tendencies in a people's life.

A large, well-organized and efficient Sunday school under an able and sacrificing superintendent, Mr. Charles Hain, aided by a corps of willing teachers, forms an important part of the activities of the congregation. This church is interested in and supports Home and Foreign Missions.

To have ministered to and directed the spiritual activities of a people for more than thirty years—what a privilege, what a duty, what a responsibility! How faithful Pastor Kershner has been to his sacred trust during all these years only those who know him best can tell.

Mr. Kershner is a man of poetic temperament—a man of deep feeling and sympathy, one to whom the beautiful in nature and art appeals strongly; gifted, too with a sense of humor, tactful and courageous, kindly and warm-hearted he moves among his people loved and esteemed by them and respected by all. We think Goldsmith's lines an apt description as applicable to the present pastor of Hain's:

"At church with meek and unaffected grace
His looks adorned the venerable place;
Truth from his lips prevailed with double sway,
And fools who came to scoff remained to pray."

IMPROVEMENTS.

The following facts are given as a record of improvements and addition to the church property:

In August, 1885, a bell was purchased for $308. In exchange there was given an older bell valued at $198 and cash $110. In the fall of 1896 the church was painted on the exterior. Darius H. Bohn and Daniel Krick superintended. At the same time the well was deepened by drilling. Mr. Brechtbill, of Myerstown, had the contract. On Oct. 22, 1896, the ringing of the church bell at 11 o'clock was discontinued. On Sept. 11, 1897, the congregation decided by ballot to install a steam heating plant. The contract was awarded to the Penn Steam Heating Co. at a cost of $571.96. On June 4, 1898, the envelope system for collecting church dues was adopted. On April 1, 1899, the lot situated on the east side of the Eastern Cemetery was purchased from Henry M. Wenrich for $150. In August, 1903, the church was re roofed. J. Boltz had the contract at $275; spire work at 25 cents per hour. At the same time the church was painted on the outside. A new pipe organ purchased at $2300 and placed on the first floor behind the pulpit, and the interior was frescoed by Mr. Imhoff. The contract price was $500. The organ was dedicated on Whitsunday, May 22, 1904. Services afternoon and evening. On April 7, 1905, the land deal with Adam G. Bender was completed. The amount paid by the church was $60. The individual communion service was used the first time at the spring communion of 1908. Price paid for same, $92.10. In the spring of 1910 the electric lights and motor power were installed at a cost of $1,175.25. In the fall of 1912 the old part of the church was cemented and laid out in brick, and the entire church was painted on the outside. Cost, $545.17. In October, 1914, the new shed was built at a cost of $626.43. The Mountz property must have been bought before 1896. The price paid was $1,900.

Adam G. Lerch.

An old and well-known attorney of the city of Reading in a conversation with the writer a few years ago remarked: "In my long practice of law I have had the settlement of many estates, and the papers of many Justices of the Peace have passed through my hands—some good, more bad, many indifferent; but for exactness and thoroughness in figures, in legal form and in surveys and in conveyances the papers of Squire Lerch of Minersville I always find to be right and correct." This remark of the nestor of the Berks county bar is typical of the work of a lifetime of Adam G. Lerch, esq., whether the work be that of writing a will, or a deed, of running the survey of a tract of land, of tying the marriage knot for some bashful country couple (as was frequent in former days), or of collecting and arranging material for writing a history of Hain's Church.

The present and future membership of this Church is indebted to the tireless work of a lifetime of this plain, unassuming, kindly man, in the collection, preservation and arrangement of papers, facts and traditions connected with the history of her organization and work. This volume of local Church history could hardly have been prepared—certainly only in a much more shortened form—without his assistance. He has had in his keeping for many years the old church records and papers from which many items of interest have been gleaned. He has gotten up a Church record or index alphabetically arranged in which he has transcribed and translated facts of early Church activities for the purpose of future reference. The translation and arrangement of the list of baptisms in the congregation during these many years is mostly his work. The keeping of the records and financial statements in a business-like way has been his work for years. All these records are in his charge in the church safe.

Mr. Lerch is a man of long experience in all that has to do with the life of Hain's congregation and with the life of the neighborhood for miles around. A reader and a thinker from boyhood, as teacher, farmer, Justice of the Peace and business agent in connection with the purchase and sale of property over a large radius of country, as a surveyor, he has acquired a knowledge of local affairs, a fund of reminiscences, an acquaintance with various types of legal procedure—in short, a knowledge of books, of men and of affairs that make his experience and his advice much sought and his word esteemed as good as his bond wherever he is known. In mental and in physical characteristics Mr. Lerch is a typical representative of the family on the father's side—a Lerch in face, form and mind. Not one of all who know him best would disagree in calling him “the Grand Old Man” of Hain's Church congregation.

Bethany Orphans' Home League.

The Bethany Orphans' Home League was organized on Jan. 24, 1915, by Mrs. C. S. Reber and Miss Martha E. Homan with thirty members on roll. The membership has steadily increased and now numbers 130. The officers of the League are: President, Mrs. C. S. Reber; Vice President, Mrs. Herbert Sheidy; Secretary, Esther Sheidy; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. John Yoh; Treasurer, Mrs. Eugene Hetrick; Financial Secretaries, Eva K. Ruth, Ellen Kintzer, Mrs. Herbert Noll and Mrs. Elmer Henne. The object of the League is to sew for the orphans and help the Home wherever a willing hand is needed. During the first year the League made 85 articles of clothing for the children, 120 articles for the bazaar, filled a barrel of canned fruit and vegetables and gave a picnic dinner for the whole Bethany family. This was a very enjoyable event both to the orphans and to the members of the League. The League also purchased the pulpit and pulpit chairs for the new Bethany Church, which was dedicated July 6, 1916. The Sunday school also contributed to this cause. Monument Erected in 1916 in Memory of George Hain.

The Memorial Church of 1916 Representing the First Log Church of 1735.

Log Church.

The miniature log church is erected where the Cacusing Church stood in the years 1735 to 1766 as a memorial of those ancient days. To the east of this church lie buried the forefathers and founders of the present congregation. All the graves look to the east. The first tombs or graves had the lime stones to mark the resting place, and on them were cut the names and dates of the deceased, As all the inscriptions are worn away by the rain, frost and power of the sun, the congregation felt that a concrete structure should be erected to their honor, as they also did in the erection of the Hain Memorial Monument at a cost of $725, which was subscribed by the members of the congregation.

Henry H. Reber, the Builder of the Memorial Church of 1916 to Represent the First Log Church of 1735.
